I Introduction

Fidelity Funds (the "Company") is an open-ended investment company established in Luxembourg as a société d'investissement à capital variable ("SICAV"). It has an umbrella structure and its assets are held in a number of different funds ("sub-funds"). Each sub-fund is a separate portfolio of securities managed in accordance with specific investment objectives. Separate classes of shares in the Company (the "Shares") are issued in relation to the sub-funds. Each sub-fund provides an investment opportunity in professionally managed pools of securities in different geographical areas and currencies, with the investment objective of capital growth, income or a balance between capital growth and income.

Shares are authorised for sale in a number of jurisdictions and may be listed on the Luxembourg Stock Exchange, except for the Reserved Funds and the Institutional Reserved Funds.

II Financial Statements

The Board of Directors of the Company (the "Board") submits its report and the audited financial statements for the year ended 30 April 2015.

The audited financial statements are set out on pages 155 to 697 of this Annual Report, with results for the year appearing in the Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets on pages 622 to 650. Dividend information for the sub-funds is detailed on pages 678 to 690.

A copy of the Annual Report may be obtained upon request from either the offices of the companies registered as distributors or from the Registered Office of the Company. Comparative figures for the previous year can be found in the Annual Report of the Company for the year ended 30 April 2014.

Alternatively, please go to www.fidelityworldwideinvestment.com/statutory/fid_funds_annual_reports.page.

III Activities during the year

The Company followed the normal activities of an open-ended investment company. The Investment Manager's Report that follows gives an overview of performance. As at 30 April 2015, the number of registered Shareholders worldwide totalled in excess of 65,000. However, the total number of investors in the Company is much greater than the number of registered Shareholders due to the fact that certain registered Shareholders may represent the holdings of many underlying clients.

The Net Assets at 30 April 2015 equalled USD 106.1 billion.

At the year end, the Company consisted of 146 active sub-funds.

Details of changes to the composition of the sub-fund range during the year are provided in the Notes to the Financial Statements on pages 670 to 697.

The Directors may from time to time close sub-funds as well as add further sub-funds with different investment objectives, subject to the approval of the Commission de Surveillance du Secteur Financier ("CSSF").

IV Board of Directors

The Directors of the Company are listed on page 5. Six of the twelve Directors, serving as at 30 April 2015, are considered by the Board to be independent of the Investment Manager and free from any business or other relationship which could materially interfere with the exercise of their independent judgment.

During the year ended 30 April 2015 the following directors were appointed: Abby Johnson on 2 October 2014 and Simon Fraser on 26 February 2015. Additionally, the following directors resigned from the board: Anthony Wu on 30 September 2014 and Thomas Balk on 26 February 2015.

V Management of the Company

FIL Investment Management (Luxembourg) S.A. ("FIMLUX") as the Management Company is responsible for the investment management, administration and distribution functions of the Company. FIMLUX may delegate part or all of such functions to third parties, subject to overall control and supervision. With the consent of the Company, FIMLUX has delegated the investment management function to FIL Fund Management Limited ("FFML") and the distribution function to FIL Distributors ("FID").

FIMLUX provides services to the Company in connection with keeping the Company's accounts, determination of the Net Asset Value of Shares in each fund on each Valuation Date and despatch of dividend payments.

FIMLUX is formally responsible for the Annual Report and Accounts of the Company for each financial year, which are required under general principles to give a true and fair view of the state of affairs of the Company. In accordance with those same principles, FIMLUX is responsible for:

- selecting suitable accounting policies and applying them consistently;
- preparing the Financial Statements on a going concern basis;
- · maintaining proper accounting records which disclose at any time the financial position of the Company; and
- complying with both the Luxembourg Law of 10 August 1915 on commercial companies and the Luxembourg Law of 17 December 2010, as amended, on undertakings for collective investment.

Supervisory Officers

FIMLUX has appointed three Supervisory Officers (the "SOs"), namely Mr. Stephan von Bismarck, Mr. Nishith Gandhi, and Mr. Charles Hutchinson.

Supervisory Officers' Responsibilities

The SOs have a duty to ensure that the tasks of the General Distributor, the Investment Manager as well as the administrative functions carried out by the Management Company are performed in compliance with Luxembourg Law, the Company's Articles of Incorporation and the current Prospectus. Amongst other things, the SOs ensure compliance with the investment restrictions of the Company and oversee the implementation of the investment policy of each sub-fund by the appointed Investment Manager.

The Management Company and/or the SOs shall report to the Board on a quarterly basis and the Supervisory Officers shall inform the Management Company and the Board without delay of any materially adverse matters resulting from the actions of the Investment Manager, the General Distributor or of the Management Company in relation to the administrative functions.

VI Role of Investment Manager and Central Administrative Agent

FFML provides day-to-day investment management of the Company, under the supervision and subject to the control of the Board and FIMLUX. FFML is authorised to act on behalf of the Company and to select agents, brokers and dealers through whom to execute transactions and is required to provide the Board and FIMLUX with any reports it may require.

Directors' Report

FFML may receive investment advice from, and act upon the advice of, any company within the FIL Limited ("FIL") organisation, including affiliate companies of FFML, and may execute, transact and otherwise carry out its functions, duties and obligations with or through any of these Fidelity companies. FFML remains responsible for the proper performance by such companies of those responsibilities.

The duties of the Investment Manager include the design, implementation and maintenance of controls and procedures to administer the assets of the Company and to manage its affairs properly. The system extends to operational and compliance controls and risk management. In addition, the Company and FIMLUX have appointed FIL to provide services in relation to the investments of the sub-funds including valuation, statistical, technical, reporting and other assistance.

VII Corporate Governance

The Board applies a clear and transparent corporate governance framework for the management of the Company's affairs.

- 1. The Board has adopted the ALFI (Association of the Luxembourg Fund Industry) Code of Conduct issued in September 2009, which sets out the principles of good governance, and considers that the Company has been in compliance with it in all material respects throughout the financial year ended 30 April 2015. The subsequent amendment to the ALFI Code of Conduct will be considered by the Board prior to adoption and necessary disclosure will be made in the annual report.
- 2. There are contractual arrangements in place governing the relationships with FIMLUX, FFML, FID and FIL as well as other third party suppliers to the Company.
- 3. The Directors take decisions in the interests of the Company and its Shareholders and refrain from taking part in any deliberation or decision which creates conflict between their personal interests and those of the Company and its Shareholders.
- 4. The Board meets at least four times a year. The Board requests and receives reports from the relevant Committees, the SOs, FIMLUX, FFML, and FID on the various activities including compliance controls and risk management undertaken by the relevant FIL companies. Senior representatives of FIMLUX, FFML and FID attend meetings by invitation, thus enabling the Board of Directors to question the reports presented to it
- 5. As part of the control framework within FIL, all FIL group employees are subject to the Code of Conduct and its Associated Policies, which, among other things, sets out procedures for personal account dealing in securities. The Board receives regular reports, from the Ethics Office on Employee Personal Trading to ensure that any conflicts of interest between personal accounts dealing by FIL group staff and the interests of the Company are properly managed.
- 6. The Board has established an Audit Committee which consists exclusively of independent Directors and which is charged with reviewing the annual accounts, the external audit process, sub-custodian arrangements and the relationship with the external Auditor, including the recommendation to Shareholders of its appointment and level of fees. The Audit Committee meets at least twice a year and reports to the Board, making recommendations where appropriate. The Audit Committee meets with the external Auditor in the absence of representatives of the FIL group at least once a year.
- 7. The nomination of new Directors is considered by the Board and is subject to the approval of the CSSF and ultimately the approval of Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting. The level of Directors' fees is put to Shareholders for approval, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation. The Directors' remuneration earned for the year ended 30 April 2015 was in aggregate USD 364,532 subject to Shareholder approval, as set out on page 676 of this Annual Report. Such remuneration is earned and paid in EUR and for comparison purposes was EUR 292,266. Directors who are affiliated with FFML, its holding company FIL, or its subsidiaries have waived their fees for the year ended 30 April 2015.
- 8. The Directors are committed to ensuring that Shareholders are kept informed of matters relevant to their investment and that all Shareholders are treated fairly. The maintenance and integrity of information concerning the Company on the Fidelity website is the responsibility of FIL. FIMLUX is responsible for the accuracy of translations of documents which may be available to investors in languages other than English. The Directors approve the English form of the financial statements presented to them at Audit Committee and Board meetings.

The external Auditor, PricewaterhouseCoopers, Société coopérative, being eligible, offers itself for re-election for the year from 1 May 2015 to 30 April 2016.

VIII Other Information

Proxy Voting

FFML has a policy of voting on equity securities where it is possible to do so unless the loss of liquidity as a result of attendant share blocking is deemed to outweigh the expected benefits to be gained. Such voting is undertaken in accordance with written proxy voting guidelines employed by the FIL group, of which FFML is a part, and takes account of prevailing local market best practices. The Board reviews and approves the proxy voting policy, activity and guidelines annually. FIL's Principles of Ownership, which summarises how FIL engages with companies in which its subfunds have invested, can be accessed from the Corporate Governance section of FIL's website (www.fidelityworldwideinvestment.com).

Commissions and Interfunding

FFML uses supplemental research in the course of its work for the Company and other clients that are paid for or provided by brokers through whom the Investment Manager executes transactions for the Company and other clients. Softing arrangements that have been undertaken in respect of the Company include research and advisory services, economic and political analysis, portfolio analysis, market analysis and specialist economic and company research.

For the year ended 30 April 2015 the percentage of total commissions incurred by the Company used for soft commissions was 10.85%.

FFML has an arrangement with selected brokers whereby a portion of commissions from security transactions may be paid to the Company to reduce transaction costs. Amounts received by the Company under this arrangement are used to offset expenses. For the year ended 30 April 2015 the Company's expenses were reduced by USD 10,795,067 under this arrangement.

The Company participates in the Investment Manager's interfunding programme whereby FIL's traders, on occasion, identify situations where an account or sub-fund managed by FIL is buying the same security that another account or sub-fund is selling. If a trader can confirm that it would be in the interests of both accounts to execute a transaction between them rather than in the market then an interfund transaction is executed.

Swiss investors

Swiss investors are advised that with the exception of Asian Equity Fund, Greater China Fund II, Fixed Term 2018 Fund, the Institutional Target Funds, the MoneyBuilder Funds, the Reserved Funds, the present sub-funds of the Company have been authorised by the Swiss Financial Market Supervisory Authority for distribution in Switzerland.

Directors' Report

IX Business of the Annual General Meeting

The Board of Directors is proposing the following resolutions be put to the Shareholders at the Annual General Meeting of the Company to be held on 1 October 2015 at noon at 2a, rue Albert Borschette, L-1246, Luxembourg:

- the presentation of the Report of the Board of Directors;
- the presentation of the Audit Report;
- the approval of the Statement of Net Assets and Statement of Operations and Changes in Net Assets for the year ended 30 April 2015;
- the discharge of the Board of Directors;
- the election/re-election of the Directors;
- the approval of the payment of Directors' fees;
- the re-election of the external Auditor;
- the approval of the payment of dividends; and
- consideration of such other business that may properly come before the Annual General Meeting under the Articles of Incorporation.

Investment Manager's Report*

Performance Overview - 12 months ending 30 April 2015

Equity Markets

Global equities rose over the 12-months to April 2015. Central banks in Europe, Japan and China continued to increase money supply in order to boost growth, supporting markets. The US Federal Reserve (Fed) ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, as well as fears over the turmoil in Greece posed challenges to performance. Towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China also added an element of caution to markets. Oil prices fell sharply towards the latter part of the period due to fears about oversupply and weak global demand. As a result, the energy sector was negatively impacted, while sectors that benefit from low oil prices, such as consumers, benefited.

Returns in US dollar terms were undermined by its appreciation against other currencies. Nevertheless, Japanese and US equity markets generated double-digit returns, outperforming other regions. On the other hand, Europe ex UK and the UK declined. The UK lagged other regions as the sharp fall in oil prices negatively impacted resources companies, which represent a significant proportion of the market.

European equities declined in US dollar terms over the period. However, the stock market gained in local currency terms (euro), primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains. At a sector level, healthcare and technology generated strong returns, while energy stocks lagged the broader market.

The UK stock market declined in US dollar terms, but advanced in sterling terms over the year. However, the market experienced bouts of volatility, which kept overall gains limited. While the outlook for the domestic economy remained positive, weak economic data and fears of deflation in the eurozone, the UK's main trading partner, undermined investor sentiment. In addition, geopolitical tensions and the uncertain lead up to the Scottish referendum, when the country would decide whether or not it would remain part of the UK, negatively impacted equities. At a sector level, technology, telecommunications and consumer services led the broader market.

US equities advanced over the year, primarily due to an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and strong earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions and fears of an imminent increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Fed remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014. Moreover, the Fed stressed that its decision on interest rate hikes will remain dependent on US economic data. Against this backdrop, healthcare, information technology (IT) and consumer discretionary were among the best performing sectors. Conversely, energy and utilities stocks lagged the broader market.

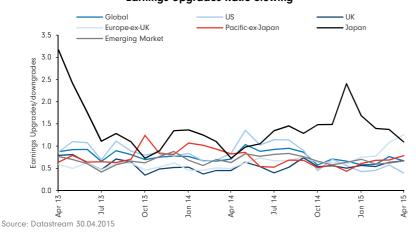

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally. Sectors that benefited from a weaker yen and lower crude oil prices were among the standout performers. Healthcare stocks with stable earnings and high dividend yields also did well. Conversely, sectors related to resources and commodities underperformed.

Pacific ex Japan equities gained over the year. Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose as the People's Bank of China cut its key interest rates and eased liquidity conditions to spur growth. The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect programme also got underway, allowing investors in both markets to trade each other's stocks. The Taiwanese market was driven higher by IT stocks that benefited from new technology product launches. Conversely, South Korean equities, particularly export-oriented companies, lagged the broader market as unfavourable currency movements made their products less competitive in overseas markets. Weakness in commodity related companies weighed on the Australian market. At a sector level, telecommunications, IT and financials gained. Conversely, energy and materials stocks declined as resource prices fell.

Emerging market equities rose during the period. Optimism around Chinese monetary stimulus measures and the US Fed's decision to maintain lower interest rates boosted investor appetite for riskier assets. Low interest rates in the developed world made emerging markets more attractive given their higher yields, which led to increased demand for these assets. However, fears of a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and the decline in commodity prices unnerved investors. Gains were also held back by escalating geopolitical tensions related to Russia's annexation of Crimea. Meanwhile, Latin American equities fell on concerns over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and a decline in oil and other commodity prices.

Investment Manager's Report*

Earnings Upgrades Ratio Slowing

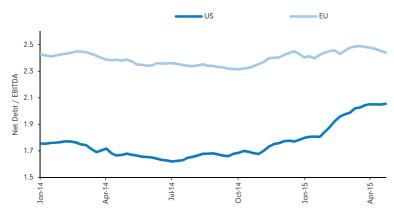

Global earnings downgrades continued to surpass upgrades as the pickup in Japan and Europe was more-than-offset by net downgrades in the US and Asia. While earnings data for Japan has moderated recently, a larger proportion of corporates issued earnings upgrades than downgrades as supportive monetary policies and reforms continued to drive growth and inflation. An improving economic environment, quantitative easing support and a weaker euro led to a pickup in earnings revisions in Europe. Conversely, earnings revisions have slowed in the US as a strong US dollar is proving to be a drag. A similar trend was seen in Asia where earnings per share growth estimates for 2015 declined. Greater divergence in the earnings trend may motivate investors to focus on corporate fundamentals, which should lead to a supportive backdrop for genuine stock pickers.

Bond markets

Global government bond markets performed strongly over the review period and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. The decline in headline inflation rates due to a significant fall in oil prices combined with concerns over the pace of global growth proved supportive for high quality sovereign and corporate bonds. High yield corporate bonds also posted positive returns, but underperformed investment grade corporate bonds as a rise in volatility, particularly in the second half of 2014, resulted in widening credit spreads.

Corporate Leverage On An Uptrend

Source: Fidelity Worldwide Investment, 30.04.2015

Supportive monetary policies by major central banks have fuelled a steady stream of corporate merger and acquisition (M&A) transactions over the past year. These deals are often debt-financed and raise companies' leverage, which can damage their credit ratings and therefore result in losses for bondholders. M&A activity, particularly in the US, looks set to build on its exceptional volumes from last year, with several sizeable deals already announced. Strategic bond investing can help to reduce concentration risks in individual market segments and can be a useful way for end investors to better protect themselves.

Performance notes on Fund Reviews

Cumulative Returns are calculated from published Net Asset Value price to published Net Asset Value price with gross income reinvested on exdividend dates. For sub-funds where the price adjustment policy has been applied as per note 2 on page 672, the Cumulative Returns are calculated to or from the adjusted Net Asset Value price.

This calculation does not include any initial charge, and represents the true investment performance of the sub-fund.

The performance figures reported under the column "Since Launch" in the tables are calculated from the commencement of operations until 30 April 2015.

Annualised performance is an alternative way of expressing a sub-fund's total return. It assumes a steady compound rate of growth during the period in question and is not the sub-fund's year by year performance, which fluctuated over the periods shown.

Please note that the Manager's Overviews are based on the first Share class disclosed for each sub-fund. Performance data is expressed in the Share class currency of denomination, indicated by the ISO code shown.

America Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 8.026 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and fears of an anticipated increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve (Fed) remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the review period, primarily driven by strong security selection in the healthcare, financials and information technology (IT) sectors. Biopharmaceutical company Amgen advanced after it posted better-than-expected results and raised its earnings guidance. Health maintenance organisations Cigna and Centene also enhanced gains. Meanwhile, the position in Electronic Arts supported returns as it reported better-than-expected earnings driven by the launch of new games. Conversely, the underweight stance in Apple was the primary detractor from relative performance. Its shares advanced on the back of the successful launch of new products. Holdings in the energy sector also remained under pressure as crude oil prices declined during the period. Consequently, positions in Suncor Energy, Southwestern Energy and Anadarko Petroleum detracted from returns.

The fund has an overweight exposure to the healthcare, IT and industrials sectors based on bottom-up, company-specific factors. Within healthcare, the manager typically focuses on pharmaceutical firms that have underappreciated drug pipelines, as well as on service providers that stand to benefit from healthcare reforms. Within technology, the fund holds out-of-favour companies with established business models and well-integrated products that are 'sticky' and hard to replace. The industrial sector comprises of a wide range of companies; holdings in the sector include a leading professional services company and a leading aerospace and defence firm

American Diversified Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 203 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received further support from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and anticipation of an increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to its positioning in the healthcare sector. The exposure to Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the US and from an ageing population, contributed to returns. The underlying position in veterinary healthcare company VCA added value as it released robust results for multiple quarters. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced to lock-in profits. A new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. The holding in specialty pharmaceuticals manufacturer Mallinckrodt enhanced performance as it acquired a rival drug maker and a critical care provider to gain access to key brands and expand into neonatal intensive care treatments. Within consumer staples, shares in Monster Beverage rose after a large global beverage maker agreed to acquire a stake in the company. Meanwhile, media company Graham Holdings advanced as investors welcomed its plan to split its cable service business into a separate entity. An underweight stance in energy also added value.

The overweight exposure to the healthcare sector was reduced to an underweight position as holdings were sold following their strong performance. Similarly, the allocation to the consumer discretionary sector was reduced, while the holding in industrials and materials was raised. Meanwhile, the manager took advantage of the sell-off in energy stocks to purchase positions in companies that are likely to do well once the sector recovers. Financials remains the largest underweight.

American Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 787 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and anticipation of an increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve (Fed) remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to strong positioning in the healthcare sector. The holding in specialty pharmaceuticals manufacturer Mallinckrodt enhanced gains on the back of its inorganic growth strategy. The company acquired a rival drug maker and a critical care provider to gain access to key brands and expand into neonatal intensive care treatments. The position in veterinary healthcare company VCA added value as it released robust results. Within consumer staples, shares in Monster Beverage rose after a large global beverage maker agreed to acquire a stake in the company. Meanwhile, the allocation to media company Graham Holdings advanced. Investors welcomed its plan to split its cable service business into a separate entity. An underweight stance in the energy sector also added relative value.

The manager looks for secular long-term growth trends and invests in companies that are positioned to do well in his preferred themes. Current themes include ageing populations in developed markets. However, the exposure to this theme was reduced over the course of the year as the manager sold healthcare holdings following their strong performance. Meanwhile, the manager bought energy stocks that suffered in the falling oil price environment in order to raise exposure to the US manufacturing renaissance theme. Elsewhere, the manager believes that the usage of mobile devices for communication and personal entertainment will increase. In that context, he bought a new position in gaming software company Activision Blizzard

ASEAN Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 1,192 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Performance in the ASEAN region was mixed over the period. The Philippine market rallied as lower fuel prices are likely to boost consumer spending. Thai equities rose as the army took steps to revive the economy after taking control of the government and as the Bank of Thailand cut its key interest rate. Financials led the Singaporean market higher. Conversely, Malaysian stocks fell on concerns that weak crude oil prices could hurt oil-related revenues. The Indonesian market plunged towards the end of the review period owing to weak corporate results. At a sector level, healthcare, information technology (IT) and telecommunications gained. Conversely, energy and materials tracked resource prices lower.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Security selection in consumer staples and telecommunications weighed on returns. Shares in palm oil producer First Resources tracked crude palm oil prices lower. Thai mobile operator Total Access Communication NVDR fell after China Mobile's investment in mobile operator True Corp intensified worries about competition. In energy, Indonesia's Tambang Batubara Bukit Asam Persero hurt returns as the government's plans to raise coal royalties are likely to weigh on the coal miner's profits. Conversely, selected industrials added value. Indonesian construction firm Pembangunan Perumahan Persero gained in anticipation of an acceleration in infrastructure spending.

The manager favours market share gainers and companies that are exposed to regional growth, as well as those that have strong management track records. The fund has a bias towards the banking, healthcare, IT and infrastructure sectors. ASEAN banks are held for their solid capital base and good asset quality. The exposure to Singapore-based DBS Group Holdings was raised for its diversified Asian operations and improving earnings outlook. The bias towards IT was increased by adding positions with solid fundamentals. The manager bought shares in online investment product distribution platform provider iFast and electronic component maker HANA Microelectronics.

Asia Pacific Dividend Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 383 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities gained over the period. Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose as the People's Bank of China cut its key interest rates and eased liquidity conditions to spur growth. The Taiwanese market was driven higher by information technology (IT) stocks, which benefited from new technology product launches. Indian equities gained in anticipation of an acceleration in structural reforms. Conversely, weakness in commodity related companies weighed on the Australian market. At a sector level, telecommunications, IT and financials gained. Conversely, energy and materials tracked resource prices lower.

The fund generated positive returns over the year due to rewarding positions in financials and IT. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) and China Construction Bank (H) rose as their earnings and cash flows should improve due to the ongoing liquidity easing in China. The exposure to both these banks was raised. CITIC Securities (H) added value as the strong performance of the Chinese equity market is likely to boost its brokerage revenue. Within IT, Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing supported returns owing to solid earnings as the contract chipmaker benefited from buoyant demand for new mobile devices released by its key customer, Apple. In industrials, shares in Hong Kong-based Hutchison Whampoa rose in light of restructuring plans to create better value for shareholders. Conversely, in the materials sector, miners BHP Billiton and Rio Tinto dampened returns as iron ore and base metal prices weakened.

The fund focuses on identifying companies that can offer good dividend growth potential and long-term secular growth in order to outperform in the current market environment. The allocation to financials was raised, largely by increasing the stake in Chinese banks and selected Hong Kong-based companies. The exposure to AIA Group was raised given the Hong Kong-based insurer's strong brand name and dominant position in key Asian markets. Additionally, the fund holds high-quality IT companies that benefit from rising internet usage and growing smartphones demand.

Asia Pacific Property Fund ⁶

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 19 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian property stocks gained over the review period. China and Hong Kong-based property companies rose as the People's Bank of China cut its key interest rates and eased liquidity conditions to spur growth. Chinese authorities also relaxed rules on down payment requirements and housing tax for home buyers to revive the property market. Japanese companies gained as the Bank of Japan expanded its monetary stimulus programme. In Australia, the reduction in the key policy rate and a fall in government bond yields supported property stocks, which are sensitive to changes in interest rates. Singaporean realty companies rose against the backdrop of the Monetary Authority of Singapore's decision to ease its monetary policy.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year due to adverse security selection in the Philippines and Malaysia. In the Philippines, the position in Century Properties Group declined in light of weak sales and higher interest costs. Shopping malls operator CapitaMalls Malaysia Trust weighed on returns due to weak operating performance at its Sungei Wang Plaza mall. In Japan, shopping mall developer and operator AEON Mall hurt performance as reduced consumer spending after the sales tax increase in the country weighed on same-store-sales growth. On a positive note, Japanese developer NTT Urban Development and real estate investment trust (REIT) Premier Investment supported returns on the back of improved office occupancies.

The fund has an overweight position in Japan given the country's improved fundamentals and an ongoing accommodative monetary policy environment. The manager raised the exposure to developers AEON Mall and Tokyo Tatemono for their reasonable valuations and positive growth outlook. The manager also favours selected high-quality companies in Hong Kong. Hongkong Land Holdings is retained for its high-quality management and upbeat outlook for its Hong Kong-based office assets. Meanwhile, the allocation to Singapore was reduced, largely by lowering the allocation to REITs, such as Frasers Centrepoint Trust, with limited upside prospects.

Asian Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 83 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities gained over the period. Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose as the People's Bank of China cut its key interest rates and eased liquidity conditions to spur growth. The Taiwanese market was driven higher by information technology (IT) stocks, which benefited from new technology product launches. Indian equities gained in anticipation of an acceleration in structural reforms. Conversely, weakness in commodity related companies weighed on the Australian market. At a sector level, telecommunications, IT and financials gained. Conversely, energy and materials tracked resource prices lower.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to unrewarding stock selection in financials. Australia & New Zealand Banking Group hurt returns due to the risk of tighter capital requirements. Within energy, the position in oil & gas explorer Oil Search tracked crude oil prices lower. In the consumer discretionary sector, shares in cafe and bakery chain operator Gourmet Master fell as food safety concerns in Taiwan and store renovations hurt its earnings. Conversely, selected high-conviction positions added value. Drugmaker Ranbaxy Laboratories boosted returns as regulators approved its acquisition by competitor Sun Pharmaceutical Industries. India-based HDFC Bank gained in anticipation of improved credit demand.

The manager focuses on bottom-up stock selection, and favours companies that have a good business model, an above-average earnings growth rate relative to market expectations and an ability to allocate capital effectively to increase returns on equity over time. The manager also likes companies that trade at attractive valuations. The fund holds companies that have a solid growth outlook. The manager purchased shares in Sydney Airport for its robust business model with high barriers to entry and its ability to reinvest capital at incrementally high rates of returns. Meanwhile, the allocation to the consumer discretionary sector was reduced by selling companies, such as Sa Sa International Holdings, with weak upside potential.

Asian Equity Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 779 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian equities rose over the year. Investor sentiment was supported by interest rate cuts by leading regional central banks, signalling their commitment to bolster economic activity. Policymakers and governments in these economies also introduced a series of reform measures. The Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect also got underway, opening up the Chinese A-share market to foreign investors.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to stock selection in the consumer discretionary and consumer staples sectors. The exposure to SAIC Motor and Kweichow Moutai added value as foreign investors used the Stock Connect to invest in these opportunities. Investors favoured automobile manufacturer SAIC Motor's significant market share and attractive prospects for new product launches. Alcoholic beverage producer Kweichow Moutai's strong franchise, significant distribution network and premium image in China's domestic market attracted interest. Robust demand for South Korean cosmetics supported the holding in Amorepacific. These positions were reduced to take profits. The holding in CITIC Securities (H) was sold as its shares rose sharply after trade volumes soared due to the Stock Connect. The position in AIA Group and new holding in China Pacific Insurance Group (H) enhanced gains. These insurers delivered strong earnings, aided by improvements in the value of new business and remained well placed to grow their premiums. Conversely, the allocation to Hyundai Motor hurt returns as its investment in a land auction was not well received; however, its management addressed ensuina concerns.

The fund is overweight in the consumer staples sector, where the exposure to China Mengniu Diary was increased. Its tie up with Danone is helping it to focus on improving efficiencies. This supports its long-term prospects for margin expansion and cash flow improvement. At a stock level, the exposure to HK Trust and HKT was increased. The leading telecommunication services provider in Hong Kong is expected to grow at a healthy pace as operators implement rational price increases

Asian Smaller Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 213 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Smaller companies in Asia gained over the year, with India and China-based companies performing particularly strongly. From a sector perspective, healthcare, financials and consumer discretionary advanced. The economic backdrop was mixed. The outlook for India's economy improved, while growth in China and Australia weakened.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Stock selection in the information technology (IT), materials and industrials sectors buoyed returns. The position in China-based online automobile marketing and content platform operator Bitauto Holdings rose on the back of solid earnings growth. The holding in IT services provider Cognizant Technology Solutions also enhanced returns in view of better-than-expected earnings growth. The position in the former was sold and the allocation to the latter was reduced following strong gains for better opportunities elsewhere. In the materials sector, the share price of India-based cement producer Mangalam Cement rose as the outlook for cement demand improved. Meanwhile, the strong bias towards the consumer discretionary sector delivered mixed results. Holdings in jewellery retailer PC Jewellers, appliances manufacturer Zhejiang Supor Cookware and automotive parts distributor Burson Group proved highly rewarding. On a less positive note, specialty retailers Bonjour Holdings and Kathmandu Holdings hampered performance.

The manager typically looks for companies with strong competitive advantages and structural growth opportunities at reasonable valuations. The fund is managed with a value bias and high active money. The allocation to the consumer discretionary sector was significantly increased. A new holding was purchased in Burson Group as it is gaining share in a fragmented market. A new position was added in travel accessories producer Samsonite International for its robust fundamentals, brand diversification and direct-to-consumer strategy. In utilities, a new holding was bought in Power Grid Corporation in order to benefit from a rise in new order flows in India.

Australia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: AUD 571 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Australian equities gained over the review period as investors remained upbeat given attractive dividend yields and sustainable earnings growth. Furthermore, businesses that derived a large portion of their earnings from overseas advanced strongly. While the Australian economy continued to grow, the pace of expansion proved disappointing as mining investment growth weakened. The central bank lowered its benchmark rate of interest to a historic low over the year in an effort to enable a smooth rebalancing of the economy in favour of higher domestic consumption.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to stock selection and positioning in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors. An overweight stance in casino operator Crown Resorts came under pressure due to its exposure to Macau, where gaming revenue declined. The stock is retained in view of continued gains in Australia and a likely recovery in Macau. The underweight position in the financial sector hampered relative returns. The position in Austbrokers Holdings declined as it reported disappointing earnings growth. The stock is held as a fragmented insurance broking industry provides the firm with a solid growth opportunity. In contrast, biotechnology firm CSL, pharmaceuticals producer Mayne Pharma Group and health services provider Ramsay Health Care buoyed returns due to better-than-expected earnings growth. The holding in Sydney Airport also added value.

The manager adopts an unconstrained, focused, rigorous, bottom-up approach to stock selection. Companies with strong cash flows and robust balance sheets that are available at reasonable valuations are preferred. The exposure to the industrial sector was increased with the introduction of a holding in rail freight and ports operator Asciano as it initiated a business transformation plan and benefits from higher freight volumes. The holding in Brambles was sold as it reached valuation. The fund's allocation to the materials sector was also increased through a new holding in construction materials producer Boral.

China Consumer Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 2,510 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese stocks rose sharply during the period as policymakers and the government launched a series of stimulus measures to offset the slowdown in economic growth. The People's Bank of China reduced the benchmark interest rate to promote economic activity and policymakers set the official "new normal" annual economic growth rate target at 7% compared to the previous target of 7.5%. In a noteworthy development for stock markets, the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect got underway, which opened up the Chinese A-share market to foreign investors. Separately, the China Securities Regulatory Commission permitted domestic Chinese mutual funds to buy Hong Kong-listed companies through the Stock Connect programme.

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the review period, largely due to overweight positions in Macau-based casino operators. These companies suffered industry-wide declines in tourist flows and hotel occupancy rates following the Chinese government's anti-corruption efforts to curb high-end spending. The overweight stance in Sands China, Galaxy Entertainment Group and MGM China Holdings hampered returns due to a sharp decline in earnings. The lack of exposure to Hanergy Thin Film hurt relative performance. The manager lacked conviction in the company, which reported strong profit growth largely due to sales of thin film solar panels to its parent company. Encouragingly, security selection in insurers lifted returns. Strong prospects for premium growth and a potential increase in investment income due to the stock market rally supported holdings in China Pacific Insurance Group (H), China Life Insurance and Ping An Insurance Group (China) (H). An underweight stance in energy stocks lifted relative returns amid sharp weakness in crude oil prices.

During the period, the exposure to China Pacific Insurance Group (H) and China Life Insurance (H) was increased amid expectations of a structural recovery in the insurance market. The overweight holding in Kingdee International Software Group was raised in view of strong prospects for its cloud technology business.

China Focus Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 5,289 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese stocks rose sharply during the period as policymakers and the government launched a series of stimulus measures to offset the slowdown in economic growth. The People's Bank of China reduced the benchmark interest rate to promote economic activity and policymakers set the official "new normal" annual economic growth rate target at 7% compared to the previous target of 7.5%. The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect got underway, further opening up the Chinese A-share market to foreign investors and giving mainland Chinese investors access to the Hong Kong market.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the year, largely due to conviction holdings in railway equipment manufacturers. China CNR's merger with CSR received regulatory approval. Zhuzhou CSR Times Electric, a manufacturer of train-borne electrical systems that has high barriers to entry, also benefited from this positive industry development. Conviction in A-share companies supported returns. Investors focused on the prospects of selected holdings in air-conditioning unit manufacturer Gree Electrical Appliances and automobile manufacturer SAIC Motor (A). Meanwhile, property developer China Vanke rallied as there were signals of an improvement in the property market. A turnaround in investor sentiment following the launch of Hong Kong-Shanghai Stock Connect also acted as a tailwind for these stocks. Exposure to China Life Insurance (H) added notable value; the holding was increased. Investors began to recognise that this market leader in the life insurance segment is well placed to benefit from an increase in demand and the structural changes that are underway in the industry.

The manager is focused on value opportunities in structural growth areas in China. She took some profits in the above-mentioned A-share holdings, but believes that these still offer value. She increased the exposure to banks, which are trading at attractive valuations and are committed to address issues related to non-performing loans. The fund is overweight in China Merchants Bank (H) and Agricultural Bank of China (H).

China Opportunities Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 63 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong stocks rose sharply during the period, as policymakers and the government launched a series of stimulus measures to offset slowing economic growth. The People's Bank of China reduced benchmark interest rates to promote economic activity and policymakers set the official "new normal" annual economic growth rate target at 7% compared to the previous target of 7.5%. The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect got underway, further opening up the Chinese A-share markets to foreign investors

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the year. The manager did not hold Hanergy Thin Film Power Group due to a lack of conviction in its prospects. This weighed on relative returns as it reported strong profit growth, largely due to sales of thin film solar panels to its parent company. Meanwhile, the position in Galaxy Entertainment Group hurt performance as Macau-based gaming companies suffered declines in tourist flows given the Chinese government's anti-corruption efforts to curb high-end spending. An underweight stance in China Mobile weighed on relative returns as its efforts to control capital expenditure were well received. The position was increased during the year. On a positive note, the holding in CSR added value as its merger with China CNR was expected to create a combined domestic monopoly that would be very competitive in the international railway equipment market. The allocation to brokerage firm Haitong Securities supported returns. The surge in trading volumes following the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect boosted its revenues. The holding in CSR was sold and the exposure to Haitong Securities was reduced to take profits.

Oscar Leung took over as the portfolio manager in August 2014. He prefers businesses with relatively low risk, but with strong medium-term prospects that are yet to be recognised by the market. He has conviction holdings in internet stocks where Tencent Holdings is a key overweight position. The fund is also overweight in selected financials such as Bank of China (H), Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) and AIA Group.

Emerging Asia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 978 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging Asian equities rose over the year. Investor sentiment was supported by leading regional central banks, which lowered interest rates in order to bolster economic activity. Hopes of pro-growth policy reforms under new governments in India, Indonesia and Thailand supported investor sentiment. The Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect also got underway, opening up the Chinese A-share market to foreign investors.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, as the exposure to structural growth opportunities proved rewarding. The holding in Maruti Suzuki India added notable value. The Indian automobile manufacturer benefited from an improved growth outlook for India, while its attractive product range, operational efficiencies and a strong pipeline of new launches attracted investor interest. The position in Indian lender HDFC Bank enhanced gains amid expectations of a pickup in loan demand as policymakers reduced interest rates. Elsewhere, the holding in Indonesian engineering and construction firm Pembangunan Perumahan Persero supported returns. Its shares rose as investors expected that the state budget freed up after the government reduced energy subsidies would be used for infrastructure development. The manager increased the allocation to selected insurance companies China Life Insurance (H) and China Pacific Insurance Group (H). These positions rallied amid a turnaround in sentiment towards Chinese stocks, favourable prospects for a structural recovery in the domestic insurance market, expectations for premium growth and an increase in investment income due to the Chinese market rally. Conversely, an underweight stance in Ping An Insurance Group (China) (H) and not holding Bank of China weighed on relative returns given the sharp rally in Chinese financials

The manager seeks strong franchise businesses that trade below their intrinsic value, and focuses on unrecognised structural growth, restructuring opportunities and cyclical turnaround situations. The fund is overweight in the financials and consumer discretionary sectors.

Emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 817 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the emerging Europe, Middle East and Africa (EMEA) region fell, largely due to fears over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector, a fall in commodity prices and the possibility of a debt-default by Greece. The reluctance of the Organisation of the Petroleum Exporting Countries to reduce output triggered $\boldsymbol{\alpha}$ sharp fall in oil prices. However, the US Federal Reserve's clarification that it would $\mbox{\it maintain low interest rates}$ for the time being limited the downside. Having declined through 2014, Russian markets advanced following the ceasefire in the Ukraine. Meanwhile, European policymakers announced a large monetary stimulus programme to support economic growth.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to holdings in the consumer discretionary and financials sectors. Within consumer discretionary, the exposure to media company Naspers enhanced gains given the strong performance of its e-commerce and internet businesses. The allocation to furniture retailer Steinhoff International Holdings added value, driven by its integrated furniture retail business model. In the financials sector, shares in insurer Discovery rose on the back of its robust half-yearly results. However, the holding in African Bank Investments declined as rising bad loans hurt the company's capital. Subsequently, South Africa's central bank suspended trading and announced a restructuring of the bank in 2014.

Emerging market consumers spend a large proportion of their income on food and other basic goods. This, coupled with rising disposable income and improving $communication \ \ and \ \ infrastructure, \ \ presents \ \ interesting \ \ investment \ \ opportunities.$ Consequently, the fund has significant exposure to consumer sectors. Within consumer discretionary, the exposure to Steinhoff International Holdings was raised. It is an integrated retailer that manufactures and retails furniture and household goods in Europe, Africa and Australasia. However, shares in Russian retailer Magnit GDR were sold owing to the deteriorating macroeconomic environment.

Emerging Markets Focus Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 2 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose over the period. Optimism around Chinese monetary stimulus measures and the US Federal Reserve's decision to maintain lower interest rates boosted the appetite for riskier assets. In Asia, Chinese equities advanced following the government's decision to lower bank reserve requirements. However, fears of a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and escalating geopolitical tensions in Russia held back gains. Elsewhere, Latin American markets declined due to a fall in oil and commodity prices.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to holdings in the consumer discretionary sector. The underweight exposure to the energy sector also contributed to returns. From a country perspective, South African holdings enhanced gains. Within consumer discretionary, the allocation to media company Naspers added value driven by the robust performance of its e-commerce and internet businesses. The position in China-based Great Wall Motor Company advanced. It provided an optimistic outlook for 2015 given its strong product mix and the relaunch of its premium sports utility vehicle (SUV). In the financials sector, shares in China-based Haitong Securities rose on the back of strong quarterly results and its plans to acquire a Portuguese investment bank. Shares in insurer AIA Group gained as it released strong annual results and announced plans to increase its dividend.

Emerging market consumers spend a large proportion of their income on food and other basic goods. This, coupled with rising disposable income and improving communications infrastructure, presents interesting investment opportunities. Consequently, the fund has significant exposure to consumer sectors. Within discretionary, media company Naspers is a key position as its e-commerce business is likely to benefit from rising internet usage. In the financials sector, India-based HDFC Bank is another key holding in view of its strong track record and the improving economic environment in India.

Emerging Markets Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 3,930 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose during the period. Optimism around Chinese monetary stimulus measures and the US Federal Reserve's decision to maintain lower interest rates boosted investor appetite for riskier assets. Low interest rates in the developed world made emerging markets more attractive given their higher yields, which led to increased demand for these assets. However, fears of a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and the decline in commodity prices unnerved investors. Gains were also held back by escalating geopolitical tensions related to Russia's annexation of Crimea. Latin American equities fell on concerns over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and a decline in oil and other commodity prices.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector. The underweight positions in energy and materials also supported relative performance. At a country level, selected holdings in South Africa aided returns. In consumer discretionary, media company Naspers enhanced gains on the strong performance of its e-commerce and internet businesses. In the consumer staples sector, South Korean cosmetics company Amorepacific added value given the rising popularity of its products among Chinese customers. Internet technology company NetEase ADR advanced on the back of its gaming and advertising businesses. Within financials, shares in China-based brokerage firm CITIC Securities rose on hopes that policymakers' plans to reform capital markets and improve liquidity will boost earnings of large brokerages.

Emerging market consumers spend a large proportion of their income on food and other basic goods. Consequently, the fund has significant exposure to consumer sectors. Within consumer discretionary, shares in SAIC Motor were purchased given its robust product portfolio. The fund has limited exposure to the materials sector, as oversupply of commodities is putting downward pressure on these shares.

Euro Blue Chip Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1,219 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited gains.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year as both stock selection and sector positioning boosted returns. The exposure to the financials, healthcare and telecommunications sectors enhanced returns, while the positioning in consumer staples and materials hurt performance. In financials, an underweight stance in some risky peripheral banks added relative value. The position in German residential property group GAGFAH also gained following a takeover offer. Conversely, energy holding Royal Dutch Shell and stocks with oil exposure, such as Siemens, fell amid a decline in oil prices.

The manager continues to focus on stocks that have the ability to expand relatively independently from the macroeconomic environment. As a result, healthcare is a key overweight as the predictability of sales for new product launches is high. The exposure to the sector was increased by purchasing shares in Roche Holding, which has a strong pipeline of new treatments over the longer term. The overweight stance in industrials was also raised. The manager found a new opportunity in global energy management company Schneider Electric, which became more attractive on price weakness. Conversely, he moved to an underweight stance in the consumer discretionary sector. Profits were taken in Volkswagen and Autogrill as these stocks appeared expensive after a strong rally. The fund is underweight in financials, which is a sector that is largely driven by external events rather than company-specific factors. Nevertheless, the manager bought some attractively valued stocks with growing dividends and strong balance sheets such as ING Groep.

EURO STOXX 50TM Fund ^{2,3}

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 267 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund belongs to the class of investment funds known as index trackers. These funds are invested in such a way that they provide returns that are as close as possible to that of the index. However, the fund incurs costs and expenses that the index does not incur - although it can benefit from securities lending when the index cannot. This means fund returns should be similar to the index, rather than identical. Over the period, the fund, as measured by the AEUR class, returned 16.0% in euro terms, underperforming the EURO STOXX 50 Index, which returned 16.1%. In the previous period, the same class returned 21.2% in euro terms, outperforming the 21.1% return of the EURO STOXX 50 Index.

The fund aims to track the performance of the EURO STOXX 50 Index, which is a concentrated index of the 50 largest companies in the eurozone. The managers endeavour to minimise deviation from the index by using an index tracking technique, which comprises full replication of the companies represented in the index. They do not make any active stock, sector or geographic investment decisions. Please note, the fund's cash position does not mean that the fund is under-exposed to the index, as any cash balance is typically equitised with equity index futures contracts. This helps to efficiently manage cash flows in the fund at reduced costs. When taking into account exposure achieved by these futures contracts, the fund's sector and top holdings weights more closely match the index.

European Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 398 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund generated strong returns and outperformed the comparative index over the year. In particular, the position in pharmaceuticals company Shire rose amid news of merger and acquisition prospects. The holding was sold after a significant rise in its share price. Consumer finance provider Provident Financial advanced. Customer numbers and profit margins at its credit card business Vanquis Bank improved, while the restructuring of its home credit business progressed well. The company also reported a significant rise in its net income in the first quarter of 2015. Wimpey House builder Taylor Wimpey and software services provider Moneysupermarket.com Group were also among the top contributors to performance.

Fabio Riccelli took over the management of the fund from 1 October 2014. He continues to reinforce positions that have strong intrinsic growth potential and where macroeconomic factors do not have a significant impact on performance. The manager made changes to the portfolio based on his investment style. For instance, he made the portfolio more concentrated; there were 47 positions in the fund at the end of April 2015, compared to 82 holdings at the end of September 2014. At a stock level, the manager increased the exposure to Amadeus IT Holding, an information technology (IT) services provider to the airlines industry. The stock remains well-placed to benefit from higher air traffic, as well as from its recent move to expand services in the airport and rail management and hotel businesses. Positions in BNP Paribas, Investment AB Kinnevik and Commerzbank were sold as the manager did not see further growth potential.

European Dividend Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 630 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains. At a sector level, healthcare and technology generated strong returns, while energy stocks lagged the broader market due to weak oil prices.

The fund reported strong absolute returns but underperformed the comparative index over the year. Some of our high-conviction holdings contributed to performance, but selected positions fell owing to stock-specific reasons. This held back overall returns. Supermarket major Tesco was a notable detractor from performance. Its shares plunged after it admitted to aggressive accounting in supplier contracts, which resulted in the suspension of its UK CEO and a lowering of its profit outlook. Nevertheless, its shares have rallied this year after the new CEO's plans to turn around the retailer found favour with investors. On a positive note, Swedish security services group Securitas rose owing to its improving earnings prospects. Elsewhere, the holding in leading dialysis provider Fresenius Medical Care was supported by a positive regulatory environment in the US, its major market, and an upbeat earnings outlook.

The manager continues to focus on good businesses with strong brands and entrenched market shares, cash generation and good balance sheets. There are a lot of such companies in Europe and they form the basis of the fund. The manager bought a new position in Zurich Insurance Group, which offers an attractive stock valuation and good divided yield. In the banking sector, he bought new holdings in quality banks Barclays and Standard Chartered, both of which have good assets and are attractive from a stock valuation perspective.

European Dynamic Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 586 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected positions were buoyed by encouraging results and good growth prospects. The lack of exposure to certain energy stocks also supported relative performance. In particular, consumer finance provider Provident Financial advanced. Customer numbers and profit margins at its credit card business Vanquis Bank improved, while the restructuring of its home credit business progressed well. The company also reported a significant rise in net income in the first quarter of 2015. The new position in online takeaway ordering services provider Just Eat advanced, driven by strong order growth. House builder Taylor Wimpey and software services provider Moneysupermarket.com Group were also among the top contributors to

The higher growth potential and quality of the companies owned, combined with reasonable valuations, positions the fund well for long-term outperformance. As a result of stock picking, the fund has an overweight exposure to the healthcare, information technology (IT) and industrials sectors. The manager is finding fewer opportunities in sectors that are generally more susceptible to macroeconomic factors and where correlations of returns are higher. A new position was added in Amadeus IT Holding, an IT services provider to the airlines industry. It remains wellplaced to benefit from higher air traffic, and from its recent move to expand services in the airport and rail management and hotel businesses. Conversely, positions in beverages company C&C Group and aerospace and defence firm Rolls-Royce Holdings were sold.

European Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 288 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Selected positions rose amid good growth prospects and positive news. In particular, the allocation to budget airline Ryanair Holdings advanced following encouraging second-half 2014 results. The company also significantly raised its capacity and traffic growth guidance for 2015. Certain financials positions, including Deutsche Wohnen and Credit Agricole, were also among the top contributors to performance. Oil and gas firm BG Group rose strongly towards the end of the period, boosted by a rebound in oil prices and a potential merger with Royal Dutch Shell (A). Conversely, the holding in online travel agency eDreams ODIGEO was hurt by profit warnings. The position was sold following a change in the investment thesis.

The fund is well diversified across sectors as the manager does not take big sector or country bets and aims to outperform the comparative index via strong stock picking. The manager prefers affordable growth companies where the sustainability of long-term returns is underestimated by the market. Within this category, a new position was purchased in Henkel & Co, a diversified international group that operates in consumer products and is a global leader in industrial adhesives, which accounts for 50% of its sales. The manager also prefers cyclical turnaround firms that have the ability to recover faster than market expectations. A new position was purchased in CRH, a vertically integrated Irish construction conglomerate that operates in the US and Europe, both of which have strong recovery prospects.

European Growth Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 8,599 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven largely by strong stock selection. This is the aim of the manager's portfolio construction process as he tries to ensure that macroeconomic/factor/sector risks are minimised and stock selection drives performance. Cash-generative defensive businesses such as publisher and information provider $\mathsf{Reed}^{\bar{}}$ Elsevier and insurance stock Legal & General Group were notable contributors to returns. Investors also rewarded London Stock Exchange Group for its well-planned accretive deal to acquire Russell. As a result, the exposure to the financials sector boosted performance. Conversely, energy holdings and companies with oil & gas exposure, such as Siemens, detracted from returns. This was offset by an overweight stance in beneficiaries of lower oil prices, such as consumer discretionary stocks, and avoiding utilities and other companies that own oil assets.

The manager reduced the exposure to positions that had re-rated. For example, he sold holdings in Renault and Continental. The manager also moved funds from Allianz into AXA as the latter was trading at better valuations. He also purchased shares in some cyclical companies with significant re-rating potential such as staffing company Randstad. Elsewhere, the exposure to some stocks that may benefit from a recovery in oil prices was increased as the manager believes oil prices will rebound over the medium term. He raised holdings in energy firm Statoil and DNB ASA in financials. The latter was available at an attractive valuation as it was sold-off due to its perceived sensitivity to oil prices.

European Smaller Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1,045 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the 12 month period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains. Overall, smaller companies slightly underperformed their larger counterparts.

The fund's performance was supported by strong security selection in the information technology (IT) and financials sectors. For instance, shares in IT company Luxoft Holding, online takeaway food delivery service Just Eat and specialty real estate manager Grand City Properties rose on the back of strong results. The position in price comparison website Moneysupermarket.com Group also gained after it issued a positive trading update. However, selected holdings such as videogame developer GameLoft and online fashion retailer boohoo.com retreated due to weak management auidance

The fund remains overweight in the IT and consumer discretionary sectors. Offshore software developer Luxoft Holding is a top position in the portfolio as it has strong revenue growth prospects and the potential to make accretive acquisitions. The manager purchased several holdings in quality growth companies over the year. He bought new positions in asset managers Anima Holding and Henderson Group, both of which have strong performance records, thereby increasing the fund's positioning in a structurally growing industry. These companies stand to benefit from cyclical tailwinds, with renewed appetite for European equities and a stabilisation in the macroeconomic environment. Conversely, the holding in banking software company Temenos Group was sold due to concerns about sales execution in Asia.

European Value Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 165 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a larger-than-expected bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, with automobiles and healthcare positions, in particular, rising strongly. The holding in Fiat Chrysler Automobiles advanced as the company posted higher sales for light trucks and cars; it also announced plans to launch 20 new models by 2016. The position in Daimler also rose. Elsewhere, the allocation to pharmaceuticals company Shire was buoyed by news of merger and acquisition prospects. Biotechnology firm Actelion also rose; the position was sold following a strong run in its share price.

Panos Theofilopoulos assumed responsibility for the fund on 8 September 2014. Panos favours large-sized companies and places a lot of emphasis on intrinsic value and downside risk. He prefers to hold a combination of stable and cyclical companies and made changes to the portfolio based on his investment style. Among cyclical companies, he bought a position in Daimler. The firm's management is taking steps to improve performance via better cost management, improved product distribution (especially in China) and a more complete product offering in terms of the number of models and product attractiveness. Panos also found opportunities in the financials sector; new positions were purchased in Credit Suisse Group and Banco Santander, which are well-positioned to benefit from the restructuring efforts of their new management teams. At the same time, he reduced the exposure to the energy sector. For instance, he sold positions in BP, Royal Dutch Shell and Total as oil prices negatively impacted their outlook.

FIRST All Country World Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 72 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by the European Central Bank's quantitative easing measures, which exceeded market expectations, while several central banks announced policy measures that supported investor sentiment. Investor interest was mostly centred around those segments of the market where there was clear visibility on future earnings growth.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since its launch on 4 December 2014. Strong earnings results and operating performance of our top buy rated ideas and high-conviction holdings contributed strongly to performance. LG Chemical's first quarter operating profit exceeded market estimates due to solid performance from its petrochemical unit given lower raw materials prices and higher product prices. The Portfolio Management team increased the exposure to China Power International Development. Its share price advanced after the company reported a rise in its 2014 net profits, benefiting from strong earnings growth from both the thermal and hydro power segments. Health insurer Cigna delivered better-than-expected revenue and profit growth in its first quarter, driven by higher premiums and fees. Conversely, certain financials sector positions hurt returns. In particular, UK-based Close Brothers Group is witnessing a slowdown in its loan book. This position was reduced. French electric utility player GDF Suez and integrated forest products company Weyerhaeuser also detracted from performance.

The Portfolio Management team believes that stock markets are semi-efficient and that the systematic capture of high-conviction proprietary fundamental research delivers long-term outperformance. Their investment process is designed to systematically capture Fidelity research analysts' highest conviction stock recommendations in a portfolio that minimises unintended factor or style biases. The Portfolio Management team ensures that only the highest quality and most relevant Fidelity ratings are implemented and that stock selection is the primary driver of both risk and returns

FIRST Developed World Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 2 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global developed market equities rose over the period, supported by the European Central Bank's quantitative easing measures, which exceeded market expectations, while several central banks announced policy measures that supported investor sentiment. The strong US dollar hurt certain US holdings. Investor interest was mostly centred around those segments of the market where there was clear visibility on future earnings growth.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since its launch on 4 December 2014. Strong earnings results and positive news flow supported our highconviction holdings. Health insurer Cigna delivered better-than-expected revenue and profit growth in its first quarter, driven by higher premiums and fees. Shares in Novo Nordisk (B) rose after it announced that it will resubmit its application to the US Food and Drug Administration for its key insulin drug Tresiba. This raised hopes that the drug will be launched in the US market sooner than anticipated. Elsewhere, investors remained positive about Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group's shareholder friendly return policy, recent measures to boost US profits and domestic loan book growth. Conversely, industrial gases company Praxair issued weak 2015 earnings guidance owing to foreign currency headwinds and lower volumes in the oil/metals end-markets. In addition, holdings in French electric utility player GDF Suez and integrated forest products company Weyerhaeuser detracted from performance.

The Portfolio Management team believes that stock markets are semi-efficient and that the systematic capture of high-conviction proprietary fundamental research delivers long-term outperformance. Their investment process is designed to systematically capture Fidelity research analysts' highest conviction stock recommendations in a portfolio that minimises unintended factor or style biases. The Portfolio Management team ensures that only the highest quality and most relevant Fidelity ratings are implemented and that stock selection is the primary driver of both risk and returns.

France Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 262 MILLION

Manager's Overview

French equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund generated strong returns but underperformed the comparative index over the year. Certain consumer discretionary positions detracted from performance. In particular, the holding in online travel agency eDreams ODIGEO was hurt by profit warnings. The position was sold following a change in its investment thesis. On a positive note, shares in luxury goods manufacturer Christian Dior advanced. The company reported an increase in its half-yearly revenues at the end of 2014 and also decided to pay an interim dividend. Positions in personal goods company L'Oreal and eye care equipment manufacturer Essilor International were also among the top performers.

The manager prefers growth companies with strong financials and attractive cash returns policies, along with cyclical stocks that have the potential to beat consensus earnings expectations. He bought a new position in undervalued growth company Essilor International. It is a dominant player in an attractive structural growth market, and spends several times more on research and development than its competitors. The company is also well-placed to grow its revenues, given the contribution from strategic acquisitions and a return to organic growth. The manager also found opportunities in the financials sector. A new position was purchased in Credit Agricole. It has a very attractive profile among French banks, strong financials, improving governance and attractive valuations. Conversely, holdings in consumer services provider Sodexo and chemicals company Arkema were sold.

Germany Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1,121 MILLION

Manager's Overview

German equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market

The fund underperformed the index over the period. The overall bias towards small and mid-sized companies hurt performance as large-sized stocks rallied. In particular, positions in engineering services company Bilfinger and machinery firm Deutz detracted from returns. However, both firms remain well positioned for growth. On a positive note, the lack of exposure to the utilities sector added relative value, while selected holdings benefited from encouraging prospects. In particular, the position in real estate developer GAGFAH advanced amid news that Germany's biggest residential real estate company Deutsche Annington Immobilien offered to buy the company. Shares in insulin manufacturer Novo Nordisk (B) rose after the firm announced plans to resubmit a new drug application for its long-acting insulin candidate Tresiba to the US Food and Drug Administration.

The manager continues to favour high-quality growth companies with a small and mid-cap bias. The exposure to smaller sized stocks was increased further as the manager believes that the underperformance of these stocks is not justified given the quality of these companies. New positions were purchased in Grenke Leasing, GFT Technologies and Symrise. At a sector level, automobiles remain the largest overweight, with an inclination towards suppliers. The position in Volkswagen AG Perpetual (Pref'd) was reduced following its strong performance and as concerns about China increased. Low growth sectors, such as insurance, remained the largest underweights.

Global Consumer Industries Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 526 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global consumer staples and consumer discretionary stocks outperformed global markets during the year. The sectors continued to benefit from low oil prices and largely improving consumer sentiment in certain regions, particularly the US. In general, global equities rose over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said it would wait for stronger economic data before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility.

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the year. The position in Hyundai Motor came under pressure as the company experienced a slowdown in sales growth in both South Korea and China, its key markets. Its earnings were also negatively impacted by unfavourable currency movements. Shares in hardwood flooring company Lumber Liquidators declined as it released disappointing earnings and said that it may face criminal charges from the Department of Justice under an Act aimed at curbing the illegal harvest of tropical hardwoods. Consequently, the manager sold the position. Elsewhere, the lack of exposure to Toyota Motor and Home Depot detracted from relative performance. On a positive note, shares in CVS Health surged after it issued strong guidance for 2015 and announced a share repurchase programme. The holding in speciality retailer LBrands also advanced after it reported strong operating performance. Shares in BJ's Restaurants rose on the back of positive investor sentiment surrounding its cost containment efforts.

Aneta Wynimko took over the management of the fund on 2 February 2015. She aims to create a concentrated portfolio of long-term winners whose outlook is undervalued by the market. Aneta looks for businesses with pricing power, strong brands and valuable intellectual property. The fund is expected to have a quality bias compared to the overall consumer sector.

Global Demographics Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 96 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said it would wait for stronger economic data before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece posed challenges to market sentiment.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period. The position in Lee's Pharmaceutical Holdings was the largest contributor to returns. Investors were positive on the company's strong product portfolio and unique pipeline, which should enable it to generate sustained growth. The position in Actavis added value as it reported better-than-expected earnings driven by strong drug sales, which in turn was boosted by acquisitions. Insurer AIA Group also advanced on the back of stronger-than-expected results. Elsewhere, shares in Perrigo rose amid a takeover offer from rival firm Mylan. Conversely, the lack of exposure to Apple was the largest detractor from relative performance. Its shares surged following the successful launch of new products. Luxury goods company Compagnie Financiere Richemont weighed on returns as its sales declined due to weaker demand from Asian markets.

Given the long-term nature of demographic trends, the overall structure of the portfolio is likely to remain stable. The fund is divided between "winners of today" and "winners of tomorrow", which includes product innovators and new growth markets. The managers continue to maintain a high degree of conviction in the fund's holdings from a long-term perspective.

Global Dividend Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 3.837 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply in order to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, geopolitical tensions in Russia and the Middle East, as well as pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong hurt investor sentiment. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 on weak global demand and rising production from

The fund generated positive absolute returns but underperformed the comparative index over the year. At a stock level, energy groups Statoil and Total were the key detractors from returns. Their shares fell in line with the sharp decline in oil prices amid concerns about oversupply and weak global demand. The holding in leading European construction and concessions company Vinci also held back gains following a period of strong performance. The new position in Kraft Foods Group was among the biggest contributors to returns. Its share price rose following the announcement of its merger with US food major Heinz. Elsewhere, the holding in Japanese drugmaker Astellas Pharma benefited from a strong rally in Japanese equities. The allocation to publisher Reed Elsevier also added value, driven by its positive growth prospects.

The portfolio remains well diversified, with a focus on stocks that offer regular income and capital preservation, as well as long-term capital growth and inflation protection. The largest absolute exposure is to the healthcare sector, while consumer stocks also remain well represented. The manager remains cautious on materials and industrials, as profitability levels in these sectors appear to be vulnerable. The manager bought a new position in Zurich Insurance Group in the financials sector. The company offers an attractive stock valuation and good divided yield. A new holding was also purchased in US consumer staples major Procter & Gamble. It has a very good portfolio of leading brands in different categories and pays a good dividend.

Global Equity Income Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 46 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply in order to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, geopolitical tensions in Russia and the Middle East, as well as pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong hurt investor sentiment. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 on weak global demand and rising production from

The fund generated positive absolute returns but underperformed the comparative index over the period. At a stock level, energy groups Statoil and Total were the key detractors from returns. Their shares fell in line with the sharp decline in oil prices amid concerns about oversupply and weak global demand. The position in Statoil was sold and the exposure to Total was reduced. The holding in medical technology company Medtronic contributed significantly to returns. Its merger with Irish healthcare products manufacturer Covidien is expected to provide much-needed diversification in its product line, which should offset long-term flat sales in its key businesses. Also within the healthcare sector, positions in AbbVie and Amgen added

The manager is focused on finding good opportunities in sectors that provide secure income and offer dividend growth prospects, while delivering low volatility in terms of returns and offering steady capital growth over the long term. During the period, he bought a new position in media group Reed Elsevier, which has undertaken a major transformation from publishing to become a leading technology, data and analytics company. The company's financial position is strong, it has good cash analytics company. The company's inflancial position is strong, it has good cash generation and a progressive dividend policy. The manager also bought a new holding in Zurich Insurance Group, which offers an attractive stock valuation and good divided yield. At a sector level, the biggest overweight positions are in telecommunications and healthcare, while the main underweight positions are in the industrials, technology and resources sectors.

Global Financial Services Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 588 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global financials delivered strong performance over the review period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply in order to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, uncertainty about the timing of US interest rate increases and concerns over the impact of the strong US dollar limited market gains. Investors were also worried about the debt problem in Greece and ongoing geopolitical tensions in the Middle East.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Holdings in Axis Bank and IndusInd Bank advanced as the Indian equity market, particularly the banking sector, surged after the main opposition party won a clear majority in the national elections. Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) also added value amid improved sentiment towards Chinese financials given the general monetary easing environment and some positive efforts in addressing issues pertaining to nonperforming loans. The manager found interesting opportunities in the real estate sector, which contributed to performance. He bought a position in Grand City Properties in light of favourable property market trends in Germany. Conversely, shares in Japanese mall operator Aeon Mall were negatively impacted by the consumption tax hike, poor weather and weak operating performance. However, the growth prospects of Aeon Mall's expanding mall portfolio appear to be strong. Shares in European financial institutions, including Credit Suisse Group and UBS Group, were negatively impacted by uncertainty around litigation and rising regulatory fines. The position in Credit Suisse Group was sold.

At a sector level, the fund has exposure to a wide array of investment themes, including asset managers and wealth management services; transaction processing and financial services; banking, insurance and property sectors. This wide range of investment ideas enables outperformance in most market conditions and helps the fund to better withstand periods of uncertainty.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply to support growth, which boosted equity markets. The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period. Security selection in financials stocks added value. In particular, expectations of premium growth and a strong outlook for its life insurance business lifted the holding in China Pacific Insurance Group (H). Holdings in the consumer staples sector, including CVS Health and Monster Beverage, advanced amid expectations that lower energy prices and the strengthening US economy would lead to increased consumer spending. The position in Monster Beverage was subsequently sold. Elsewhere, the manager also sold the holding in biotechnology stock Amgen, which had performed strongly following better-than-expected operational performance. Conversely, selected energy positions declined amid weakness in crude oil prices, which have been Energy and Weatherford International detracted from performance. The manager sold positions in Peabody Energy and Royal Dutch Shell due to uncertainty in crude oil prices.

Given the macroeconomic uncertainties, the manager continues to believe that stock-specific fundamentals will remain the key driver of returns. Consequently, he continues to focus on companies that demonstrate strong pricing power, are led by talented managements and are available at reasonable valuations. While there are no strong sector biases, he prefers stocks that provide growth at a reasonable price. Currently, the fund has an overweight stance in the healthcare, information technology and financials sectors.

Global Health Care Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1.149 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global healthcare stocks outperformed global markets during the year, driven by strong earnings releases and new drug approvals. The sector also continued to benefit from the ongoing merger and acquisition activity across sub-sectors. In general, global equities rose over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for stronger economic data before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period, driven by strong selection in pharmaceuticals and biotechnology stocks. The position in Avanir Pharmaceutical surged after Otsuka Holdings announced that it would take over the company. Biotechnology firm BioMarin Pharmaceutical added value as it reported strong results driven by robust sales of key drugs. Its shares also advanced amid speculation that Shire may acquire the company. Meanwhile, the lack of exposure to pharmaceuticals companies GlaxoSmithKline and Merck & Co contributed to relative performance. Not holding healthcare services provider UnitedHealth Group and biotechnology company Celgene detracted significantly from relative returns. Elsewhere, the position in Roche Holding retreated after it announced disappointing results from a breast cancer drug trial. Nevertheless, Roche Holding remains a premier oncology company with a strong and unique drugs pipeline.

The outlook for the healthcare sector remains positive on the back of improving research and development productivity. Advances in gene mapping and personalised medicine, as well as increased drug approvals and fuller pipelines position the sector to perform well in the long term. Therefore, the fund is exposed to pharmaceuticals and biotechnology companies.

Global Industrials Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 124 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, geopolitical tensions in Russia and the Middle East, as well as pro-democracy protests in Hong Kong hurt investor sentiment. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 due to weak global demand and rising production from the US, which resulted in the weak performance of the energy sector.

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the period. The overweight stance in MEG Energy and Weatherford International, which tracked crude oil prices lower, weighed on performance. These positions were sold due to uncertainty regarding crude oil prices. The allocation to Π Electronics held back returns after it said that its full-year earnings are expected to be at the low end of market forecasts. On a positive note, GAGFAH and Grand City Properties, both of which have exposure to the buoyant German property sector, performed strongly. German housing firm GAGFAH advanced following an acquisition bid by Deutsche Annington Immobilien. The position was subsequently sold. The new holding in Grand City Properties gained from a favourable business environment given the European Central Bank's quantitative easing measures. Delphi Automotive, a leading supplier of electronic components for light vehicles, was another notable contributor to returns. The company benefits from its attractive products and geographic exposure.

From a portfolio standpoint, the fund has exposure to high-quality diversified industrials, with technology and manufacturing company Honeywell International and United Technologies among the key overweight positions. The fund also has exposure to quality airline and automobile holdings, which benefit from lower fuel costs. The manager also continues to favour the recovery prospects of the US commercial construction market and the continued buoyancy of German real estate values

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the period. Weak commodity prices weighed on the performance of certain materials and energy holdings. A new position in Canadian gold miner Goldcorp came under pressure after it reported a loss in the fourth quarter. The decline in gold prices also hurt the stock's performance. In addition, Statoil, Hess and Suncor Energy were weighed down by lower oil prices. On a positive note, Japanese stocks, including Sony, Keyence and Toyota Motor added value. The manager bought a holding in consumer electronics company Sony, which is finally reaping the benefits of its restructuring efforts after weak TV and smartphone sales led to years of heavy losses. Investors remained positive about Keyence's faster-than-expected overseas expansion and its margins continued to grow. Toyota Motor, which is focusing on new technologies, is witnessing profit growth, supported by yen depreciation and the launch of new strategic models for emerging markets – α key earnings driver.

The manager believes that earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. Against this backdrop, a bottom-up stock selection approach becomes more meaningful. He focuses on companies where he has a high degree of conviction regarding their earnings growth prospects. The manager continues to look for new opportunities in out of favour quality companies. Currently, the portfolio has an overweight stance towards the healthcare, information technology and materials sectors.

Global Property Fund ⁶

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 328 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global property stocks advanced over the review period. Performance within geographies and property segments was mixed. The decline in mortgage rates, stamp duty cuts for most movers and resurgent real wages boosted the UK property market. The housing market in the US has also made strong progress. Hong Kong's property market was negatively impacted by the geopolitical unrest in the region. Nevertheless, market sentiment improved following a slew of positive developments, which include the launch of some promising new urban projects, good land sales results and a peaceful ending to the Occupy Central campaign. Meanwhile, the property market in Singapore remained under pressure as tighter mortgage measures weakened demand.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period, driven by strong security selection in the US and Japan. Sun Communities added value as investors remained positive on its strong property portfolio and visible acquisition pipeline. Macerich Company advanced after rival mall operator Simon Property Group disclosed that it holds a stake in the real estate investment trust. This led to speculation that Simon Property Group could eventually take over Macerich Company. The holding in DuPont Fabros gained on the back of strong leasing and renewal momentum in the data-centre space. Conversely, Japan-based Mitsui Fudosan detracted from performance as domestic real estate developers declined due to a market correction and negative currency movements. The position in Host Hotels & Resorts also retreated after it said that its 2015 revenue and earnings will be negatively impacted by the strong US dollar. The allocation to US-based mall operator Tanger Factory Outlets held back gains as it reported modestly lower-thanexpected funds from operations.

The outlook for property stocks remains positive. Property fundamentals are improving, albeit gradually, and demand/supply dynamics remain supportive at least for the next one to three years. Consequently, the manager continues to find investment opportunities across regions and property types.

Global Real Asset Securities Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 149 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 on weak global demand and rising production from the US.

The fund marginally outperformed the comparative index over the year. A new position in building and civil construction services provider Pembangunan Perumahan Persero advanced on the back of its rapidly growing order book and margin improvement. China Overseas Land & Investment rose after its quarterly results reflected healthy profitability. There were also signs of an early recovery in the Chinese property market, which is likely to benefit from continued liquidity injections by authorities. The allocation to mall and lifestyle centres operator Simon Property Group also added value; the position was sold following its strong performance. Although the fund had a bias against the energy sector, selected holdings, including Peabody Energy, Tullow Oil and Weatherford International weighed on returns as these stocks tracked crude oil prices lower.

The manager invests in companies that are typically backed by unique or scarce tangible assets. Such stocks tend to outperform the broader market over the long-term because the underlying assets are typically in finite supply or are difficult to replicate, helping to preserve their value in an inflationary environment. Among the key investment themes, the manager is currently invested in companies that stand to benefit from a non-residential construction recovery in the US, as well as from unprecedented quantitative easing in Japan. He also holds businesses that could benefit from supply constraints in agriculture, which is driving investment in food production and mechanisation, and from continued infrastructure investments across the emerging and developed world.

Global Technology Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 632 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global technology stocks outperformed global markets during the review period, driven by strong earnings releases and new product launches. The sector also continued to benefit from the ongoing merger and acquisition activity across subsectors. In general, global equities rose over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for stronger economic data before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the year. Shares in Nexon rose following the successful launch of new games. The holding in Amazon.com advanced after it posted better-than-expected results driven by strong sales in the North American electronics and general merchandise category and margin expansion. The lack of exposure to IBM Corporation was the largest contributor to relative performance as its shares slid following dismal sales growth and disappointing 2015 earnings guidance. Conversely, the underweight stance in Apple was the largest detractor from relative performance. Its shares advanced following the successful launch of new products. Shares in Ericsson fell after it reported a decline in its first-quarter 2015 profits owing to a slowdown in US sales and lower margins in high-growth Asian markets. The position in Nuance Communications also detracted from returns. Nevertheless, the manager's positive view on the stock is based on the company's leading market position in speech recognition technology in the healthcare, automotive and mobile segments.

The manager remains optimistic about the technology sector and looks for long-term structural winners that trade at reasonable valuations. He is currently finding interesting opportunities among communications equipment, software and internet companies.

Global Telecommunications Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 169 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Telecommunications stocks advanced in an environment of improving economic growth and increasing investor preference for the higher dividend yields offered by these stocks in a low interest rate environment. Global markets rose over the period as pro-growth policy announcements from leading central banks supported investor sentiment. However, geopolitical tensions and a fall in oil prices led to periods of volatility. Increasing industry consolidation and high growth in data traffic supported telecommunications stocks. Owing to the significance of telecommunications as an $\,$ infrastructure product, the improvement in the overall economic environment is expected to favour these stocks.

The fund generated positive returns but underperformed the comparative index over the year. The allocation to Japanese telecommunications group KDDI contributed to returns owing to its improving earnings outlook, supported by growth in its fourthgeneration (4G) subscribers. The holding in global satellite communications group Inmarsat also rose following the successful launch of its latest satellite; it also reported profit growth in 2014. The underweight stance in Chinese companies proved detrimental to relative performance. In particular, the bias against China Mobile held back relative returns. The manager subsequently increased the exposure to the stock as its 4G services are gaining traction and the company is well-paced to benefit from growth in this segment. A new position was also purchased in China Unicom.

The fund remains centred around stocks that stand to benefit from growing data demand, emerging market growth, cable infrastructure growth and restructuring potential. The manager bought a position in Swiss telecommunications company Sunrise Communications, which has an attractive stock valuation and potential for dividend growth. Deutsche Telekom, one of the better European incumbents with a strong mobile business, was another addition to the portfolio.

Greater China Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 655 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese stocks rose sharply during the review period as policymakers and the government launched a series of stimulus measures to offset the slowdown in economic growth. The People's Bank of China reduced the benchmark interest rate to promote economic activity and policymakers set the official "new normal" annual economic growth rate target at 7% compared to the previous target of 7.5%. The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect got underway, which opened up the Chinese Ashare market to foreign investors. The Taiwanese market benefited from the uptrend in information technology (IT) stocks in the first half of the review period ahead of new technology product launches.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the year due to rewarding security selection in financials. Selected brokers China Galaxy Securities and CITIC Securities lifted returns as the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect programme picked up pace and foreign interest in China's A-share markets led to a rally. The manager took profits and sold the holding in CITIC Securities and reduced the position in China Galaxy. Strong prospects for premium growth and a potential increase in investment income due to the stock market rally supported holdings in China Pacific Insurance Group (H) and Ping An Insurance Group (China) (H). The position in Kingdee International Software Group added value, given the strong prospects for its cloud technology business. Exposure to locomotive manufacturer CSR added value as its merger with China CNR was well received. The manager reduced the holding to lock-in gains. However, positions in Macau-based casino operators Sands China and MGM China hurt returns as the gaming sector remained out of favour due to lacklustre industry-wide revenues.

The fund has an overweight stance in IT, where the manager increased the allocation to Kingdee International Software Group. Elsewhere, China Pacific Insurance Group (H) and China Life Insurance (H) are key holdings. The exposure to both these stocks was increased amid expectations of a structural recovery in the insurance market

Iberia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1.055 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Iberian equities advanced over the period. Sentiment improved as the European Central Bank announced quantitative easing measures in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains. Overall, the Iberian region has undertaken significant labour reforms and is becoming more competitive and well-positioned for job creation.

The fund underperformed the Iberia Composite Index over the period. The underperformance was mainly witnessed in the first half of the period, as certain financial holdings slid. However, the fund performed strongly in the last six months after Fabio Riccelli took over the management of the fund. The position in Banco Espirito Santo was a key detractor from returns as problems at the Portuguese bank proved to be significantly worse than expected. These included $\stackrel{\smile}{\text{debt}}$ related problems at its holding companies and widespread accounting problems within the group. The holding was sold. On a positive note, selected positions were supported by encouraging results and good growth prospects. In particular, the fund's top positions, including retailer Inditex, information technology services provider Amadeus IT Holding and biotechnology company Grifols, rose strongly. The exposure to all three companies was increased as they are well-positioned for growth and the market underestimates the length of time for which these businesses can arow.

Fabio Riccelli took over the management of the fund from 1 October 2014. He invests in Iberian companies that are trading below their intrinsic value and focuses on those whose long-term growth potential is mispriced by the market. Fabio made the portfolio more concentrated; there were 42 positions in the fund at the end of April 2015, compared to 80 at the end of September 2014. At the stock level, the manager reduced certain positions in the materials and oil & gas sectors as these are more dependent on commodity and oil prices.

India Focus Fund ⁷

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 1,772 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Indian equities advanced over the year as investor sentiment was boosted by rising prospects of an economic recovery. The new government initiated a number of policy measures to boost growth, while falling inflation and better government finances helped the central bank to lower the benchmark rate of interest. Companies in the healthcare and industrials sectors gained strongly. Healthcare stocks delivered on earnings expectations and industrials companies benefited from an improved outlook for capital expenditure. Energy producers declined over the period due to a fall in oil prices.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period. Stock selection in the financials sector proved highly rewarding due to expectations of an improvement in asset quality and earnings given improving economic conditions. The holding in HDFC Bank surged on the back of its strong asset quality and as it received approval to raise additional capital. The bank delivered on earnings expectations and is well positioned to gain market share as demand for loans increases. The holding in automobile component manufacturer Motherson Sumi Systems delivered better-than-expected profits, driven by overseas business units. An improvement in the outlook for its domestic business also proved supportive.

The fund is positioned to take advantage of the key growth dynamics of the Indian economy, with a focus on stock picking and investing in companies with good quality management, scalable business models and reasonable valuations. A new holding was purchased in Mahindra & Mahindra Financial Services for its strong underwriting experience in automobile financing, particularly in rural India. The manager bought a position in Coal India given likely productivity gains and higher production volumes. The fund retains the underweight position in utilities, but a new holding was purchased in Power Grid Corporation of India given a strong pick up in orders. Holdings in Bajaj Auto, Aurobindo Pharma, and Shriram Transport Finance were sold in view of their lacklustre growth outlook.

Indonesia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 503 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Indonesian stocks fell over the period. Equities started the period on a positive note as Joko Widodo won the country's presidential elections, raising hopes for structural reforms. Sentiment also received support as the government unveiled steps to reduce its fuel subsidy bill. However, equities fell sharply towards the end of the period due to weak corporate results. At a sector level, the energy and materials sectors tracked resource prices lower. These sectors fell further as the government planned to raise coal royalties and ordered state-owned cement producers to lower cement prices. Consumer companies also fell, while financials telecommunications gained.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year due to unrewarding security selection in consumer discretionary and healthcare. Tyre maker Gajah Tunggal and automobile component maker Astra Otoparts dampened returns as they reported weak results. Pharmaceuticals and personal products manufacturer and distributor Tempo Scan Pacific fell on concerns that a weak Indonesian currency could negatively impact its profitability. In the energy sector, coal miner Indo Tambangraya Megah held back returns due to weak coal prices. Conversely, property companies Ciputra Development and Summarecon Agung added value amid expectations of higher property launches and sales in 2015.

The fund is positioned to benefit from Indonesia's long-term structural growth drivers. The fund has an overweight position in the banking sector and holds high-quality stocks such as Bank Rakyat Indonesia Persero and Bank Mandiri Persero to benefit from Indonesia's low credit penetration. The exposure to Bank Negara Indonesia Persero was raised as the new management is focused on boosting its returns profile. The fund also holds well-managed property developers in light of rising urbanisation and improving mortgage availability. In industrials, the manager favours construction firms Wijaya Karya Beton and Pembangunan Perumahan Persero due to an upbeat outlook for infrastructure development. However, these positions were reduced.

International Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 1,990 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance. Japan and the US outperformed, while the UK lagged other regions.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, supported largely by strong stock selection in North America. In particular, underlying positions in the financials and healthcare sectors added value. For instance, the exposure to Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the US and from an ageing population contributed to returns. CVS Health, which is wellpositioned to benefit from its robust generic drug pipeline, also boosted performance. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced in order to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly &Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. Overweight holdings in North America and Japan also supported relative returns. The underweight allocation to Europe as well as stock selection by underlying managers in energy and financials companies aided performance. Elsewhere, returns from the Pacific ex Japan segment were boosted by strong stock selection as well as an underweight allocation to the

The manager reduced the exposure to the US given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength. In contrast, the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness, was increased. Elsewhere, the exposure to Asia Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets, where the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenges, was reduced.

Italy Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1,086 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Italian equities advanced over the 12 month period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period due to $unfavourable \ stock \ selection \ and \ sector \ positioning \ in \ consumer \ discretionary \ and$ industrials. In particular, an underweight stance in Fiat Chrysler Automobiles hurt relative performance. Its share price rose following the announcement that the company would spin-off its stake in Ferrari in 2015. Shares in online travel agency Bravofly Rumbo Group BV fell as it continued to face increased competition in its core markets. On a positive note, the position in asset manager Anima Holding rose on the back of strong inflows and prospects of a distribution deal with Poste Italiane. Shares in travel, food and beverage supplier Autogrill also gained following the release of strong quarterly results. Its Italian operations rebounded as the company closed loss-making outlets.

The prospects for Italian equities have improved. The manager is gradually reinvesting in sectors that are starting to benefit from increased domestic demand. A position in apparel retailer OVS was purchased as it is well-positioned to benefit from the trend towards higher concentration in the highly fragmented apparel market. The manager also bought a new holding in Italian bank Banco Popolare Di Milano, which has a strong risk/reward profile. It also has an excellent franchise due to its dense branch network, primarily in the Greater Milan region, which is the core of Italy's industrial base and is also its wealthiest region. Meanwhile, the exposure to motorway operator Atlantia (A) and beverage company Davide Campari was reduced due to valuation concerns.

Japan Advantage Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : JPY 56,380 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Shares in Koito Manufacturing surged as the world's largest headlamp maker capitalised on the rising penetration of light-emitting diode (LED) headlights to increase its already high global market share. The stock was sold as it approached fair value. Among materials companies, Nitto Denko benefited from strong demand for its optical films, which are used in high-end smartphones and touch panels. Profits at Daicel, a producer of celluloid technologies and high-performance chemicals, reached a record high. Conversely, shares in industrial electronics company Hitachi retreated amid doubts about its longer-term growth story. However, the firm remains committed to its operational reforms and its valuations are attractive. Yokogawa Electric, a producer of plant control systems, succumbed to concerns about the impact of lower oil prices on global plant investment despite its limited exposure to upstream projects.

Jun Tano took over the management of the fund on 1 February 2015. Since the transition period, the fund has become more diversified - the number of holdings has increased and the market cap exposure has widened. The fund's weighting in the automobile and electrical appliances sectors was reduced substantially. Positions in Nissan Motor and NOK were sold. Instead, the manager increased holdings in pharmaceuticals stocks and non-bank financials. New holdings include Nippon Shinyaku and ORIX. Defensive sectors such as consumer staples and utilities are held at an underweight stance.

Japan Aggressive Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: JPY 8,774 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year due to stock selection in consumer-related sectors. Baby goods maker Pigeon, which continued to see strong sales growth in China, was the standout contributor to returns. Consumer electronics retailer Laox capitalised on increasing demand from inbound tourists. Earnings momentum at Rakuten's online shopping business accelerated as the effects of the sales tax hike eased. In the healthcare sector, shares in Nippon Shinyaku surged on reports of successful trial results for a new treatment. Conversely, holdings in nonbank financials detracted from performance. Shares in developer Tokyo Tatemono remained range bound following strong gains in 2013. However, its business fundamentals are improving and its shares appear undervalued. Holdings in AEON $\,$ Financial Service and ORIX also underperformed. Elsewhere, investments in non-core businesses increasingly undermined Rohto Pharmaceutical's profits; the position was

The fund is overweight in the financials, information technology and healthcare sectors. The holding in AEON Financial Service was increased, and new positions were purchased in major banks Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group and Sumitomo Mitsui Trust Holdings, both of which are actively improving shareholder returns. The manager also bought a holding in Rohm, a key beneficiary of the rising demand for automotive semiconductors.

Japan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : JPY 50,550 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Shares in industrial electronics company Hitachi retreated as its latest results disappointed, leading to doubts about its longer term growth story. The firm remains committed to its operational reforms, but near-term catalysts appear limited; the position was reduced. Among financials, developer Tokyo Tatemono detracted from returns. However, its fundamentals are improving and the manager raised the holding on weakness. Meanwhile, Shin-Etsu Chemical succumbed to profit taking. On a positive note, drug companies Shionogi and Astellas Pharmaceutical surged on strong sales of key treatments. The manager took profits in both these positions as their shares advanced. The new holding in Ezaki Glico gained on the strength of its domestic confectionary business and its expanding reach overseas.

Hiroyuki Ito took over the management of the fund on 1 June 2014. The fund's weighting in the financials, telecommunications and energy sectors was reduced substantially. Instead, the manager moved to an overweight stance in the consumer discretionary and information technology sectors. Key holdings include firms with high value-added products that are gaining global market share in areas of structural growth such as industrial robots, high-performance materials and environmental technology. The manager also favours companies that are taking steps to improve their capital efficiency and increase shareholder returns. Within financials, the fund holds real estate stocks and major banks that stand to benefit from domestic reflation

Japan Smaller Companies Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: JPY 20,987 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Shares in insecticide producer Nihon Nohyaku fell as investors took profits due to concerns about the expiration of a key product patent. Automaker Mazda Motor's share price corrected as currency weakness in emerging economies and higher production costs weighed on its earnings. The position was sold in light of these factors. On the other hand, among healthcare companies, shares in Nippon Shinyaku surged on reports of successful trial results for a pulmonary arterial hypertension treatment that is under development. Strong demand for Sysmex's haematology testing equipment overseas coupled with a weaker yen bolstered its earnings. Elsewhere, MISUMI Group, a maker of factory automation equipment, benefited from a recovery in domestic capital spending and firm demand from the smartphone industry.

The manager favours globally competitive growth stocks in the industrials and information technology sectors. High-conviction holdings in SMC (Japan) and Daicel were increased, and new positions were purchased in component makers (Rohm, Alps Electric) that are benefiting from the proliferation of automotive electronics. The manager also identified structural growth opportunities in the healthcare and consumer related sectors. Conversely, the exposure to financials was reduced due to the continued decline in short-term rates. Automobile related businesses facing cyclical headwinds were also sold. The fund remains underweight in defensive sectors such as consumer staples and utilities.

Korea Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 226 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Korean stocks rose during the review period. Expectations of improving corporate dividends, healthy corporate earnings and attractive valuations offset worries stemming from the impact of a weaker Japanese yen on South Korean exports. Meanwhile, dividend announcements from Samsung Electronics and Hyundai Motor lifted sentiment. Furthermore, Bank of Korea emphasised its support to underpin economic growth and reduced its interest rate to 1.75%.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. Positions in cosmetics producers, including new holdings in COSON and Amorepacific and an existing position in Cosmax, were beneficiaries of the ongoing strong demand trend for Korean beauty products. COSON, a supplier to leading cosmetic brands, continued to secure new clients and increased shipments to existing customers. Amorepacific saw a steady improvement in duty free sales to Chinese consumers. Hotel Shilla proved rewarding as Chinese inbound tourist sales supported the duty free store operator's earnings. The new position in shipbuilder Hyundai Heavy Industries added value as investors recognised its turnaround potential and margin growth opportunity. Elsewhere, the new holding in media conglomerate CJ E&M supported performance amid strong Chinese demand for Korean entertainment, stemming from the rising popularity of K-pop music. Its recent earnings showed that its broadcasting unit returned to profits. However, the position in South Korean media firm SM Entertainment declined on concerns over the exit of key singers and additional tax demand. The allocation to Hyundai Motor detracted from returns as its $10 billion investment in a land auction was not well received; however, its management addressed the ensuing concerns.

Meeyoung Kim took over the fund's management in November 2014. She repositioned the portfolio towards companies whose improving fundamentals are not reflected in their share price. She favours companies with high quality management, robust business models and strong free cash flows, as they tend to offer better risk-adjusted returns.

Latin America Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 913 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Latin American equities fell on concerns over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and falling prices of oil and other commodities. The reluctance of the Organisation of the Petroleum Exporting Countries to cut oil production led crude oil prices lower. Speculation on the timing of interest rate increases by the $\ensuremath{\mathsf{US}}$ Federal Reserve also hurt demand for riskier assets. However, it subsequently clarified that it is in no rush to raise interest rates, which limited the downside. Colombian markets declined in line with falling oil prices. In Brazil, investors welcomed the appointment of new finance minister Joaquim Levy.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period as stock selection in the telecommunication services and energy sectors disappointed. Shares in Canada-listed Pacific Rubiales Energy fell as the company released subdued results for multiple quarters. More recently, its contract to operate a key Colombian oil field will not be renewed, which is likely to negatively impact its output when the contract expires in 2016. Within telecommunication services, avoiding America Movil hurt relative returns. Its share price rose on news that it plans to sell some assets in Mexico to comply with the country's new regulations. However, the lack of exposure to the world's largest iron-ore producer Vale buoyed relative performance as the stock fell in-line with iron ore prices.

The manager continues to find attractive structural growth stories, primarily linked to domestic consumption. Therefore, the fund is overweight in the consumer sectors. Within consumer staples, key holdings include convenience store operators and retailers such as Lojas Renner. In the telecommunication services sector, a new position was purchased in Telefonica Brasil, which has a leadership position in the country's post-paid mobile market. In contrast, the holding in precious metal miner Cia de Minas Buenaventura ADR was reduced given its overdependence on its key Yanacocha mine.

Malaysia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 116 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Malaysian stocks fell over the period amid worries about the impact of falling crude oil prices on the country's oil-export revenues. In its revised budget for 2015, the government projected a higher fiscal deficit and introduced spending cuts as weak crude oil prices are likely to reduce revenues. Malaysia's central bank also raised its key policy rate in July to contain inflation and consumer debt. At a sector level, energy and materials tracked resource prices lower. The consumer staples sector also declined. Conversely, the healthcare sector rose, led by healthy results from IHH Healthcare. The information technology (IT) and utilities sectors also gained.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year due to rewarding stock selection in industrials. The new position in port operator Westports Holdings boosted performance owing to strong results and in anticipation of an increase in tariffs for container handling. The company continues to gain market share from competitors at Port Klang, which is the main gateway into Malaysia by sea. Shares in JobStreet rose after its online employment business was acquired by Australiabased SEEK. In the IT sector, My E.G. Services supported returns as the electronic government services provider is likely to benefit from the implementation of various e-government services projects. An underweight stance in the energy sector further enhanced relative performance. Conversely, positioning in the healthcare sector detracted from returns. Not holding hospital operator IHH Healthcare weighed on relative performance.

The fund focuses on market share gainers and companies that may benefit from policy changes such as reforms, goods & services tax implementation and infrastructure development. The fund has a bias towards the banking, industrials and telecommunications sectors. The position in Public Bank was raised for its strong asset base, cost efficiency and attractive valuations. Conversely, the allocation to the consumer discretionary sector was lowered by reducing the holding in companies with limited upside prospects.

Nordic Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : SEK 3,693 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Nordic equities advanced strongly over the period, primarily driven by the European ${\bf r}$ Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund generated strong absolute returns but underperformed the FTSE Nordic Index over the year. Selected oil and gas positions fell over the period. Shares in BW Offshore, which provides ships that pump and store oil, slid. The company lowered its dividend as its revenues would be negatively impacted by a reduction in customer spending given a fall in crude oil prices. The position in Songa Offshore also fell on fears of additional delays and costs with respect to the delivery of mid-water rigs to be operated by Statoil. On a positive note, oil & gas services provider Hoegh LNG Holdings was buoyed by a deal with Egyptian Natural Gas Holding Company, which will allow the latter to use the former's floating storage and regasification units. Shares in customer experience specialist Transcom Worldwide (B) rose after private equity fund Altor acquired a 24.5% stake in the company.

The manager follows a disciplined investment process based on systematic scoring of companies on qualitative and quantitative factors. He prefers stocks with good growth prospects. For instance, attractively valued consumer goods company Autoliv is a preferred position in the fund. The firm has good exposure to emerging markets, especially China, and strong pricing power owing to its significant market share in seat belts and air bags. Meanwhile, the holding in high-end department stores operator Stockmann (B) was increased as its restructuring plan, which includes cost saving plans and the disposal of loss making businesses, remains on track. Conversely, positions in Amer Sports and AAK were sold due to valuation concerns.

Pacific Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 2,258 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the Pacific region advanced strongly over the year. China and Hong Kong equities surged, largely driven by accommodative monetary policies and the introduction of the Hong Kong Shanghai Stock Connect programme. From a sector perspective, healthcare, financials and information technology (IT) stocks led gains on the back of healthy earnings growth and outlook. The energy and materials sectors lagged due to a decline in international commodity prices.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, primarily driven by security selection in the financials, IT and industrials sectors. The position in online automobile classifieds and marketing services provider Bitauto Holdings surged on the back of strong earnings growth. Within financials, China-based insurance provider Ping An Insurance Group (China) (H) and brokerage firm CITIC Securities rallied on the back of financial sector reforms. Railroad operator Daqin Railway benefited from price deregulation. In contrast, not holding automobile producer Toyota Motor and telecommunications services provider China Mobile weighed on relative performance.

The fund has a strong bias towards the consumer discretionary sector, with a preference for companies run by high-quality management teams and the potential to deliver attractive returns. These include automobile component manufacturer Nippon Seiki and legal services provider Slater & Gordon. Meanwhile, China-based internet companies continue to offer strong growth potential given the rising internet usage in the country and their efforts to monetise these opportunities. The largest underweight remains in financials as the manager avoids Australian banks due to their unattractive valuations. Instead, the manager has high-conviction positions in selected China-based insurance providers and Japan-based leasing and consumer finance companies.

Singapore Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 114 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Singaporean equities rose over the period, led by financials. Banking stocks gained on the back of largely healthy earnings reports. Real estate investment trusts and telecommunications stocks rose as a fall in global government bond yields supported companies offering high dividend yields. The information technology (IT) and healthcare sectors also advanced. Conversely, energy and materials stocks tracked resource prices lower. Consumer staples fell, partly due to a decline in crude palm oil prices. Meanwhile, the Monetary Authority of Singapore eased the monetary policy to counter deflationary risks as it lowered its inflation forecasts for 2015

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year due to unfavourable positioning in consumer companies. The holding in plantation company First Resources tracked palm oil prices lower. Shares in education services provider Overseas Education declined amid weak enrolments and increased competition. Within industrials, the position in Sarine Technologies fell after the diamondprocessing machine manufacturer issued a profit warning for the first quarter of 2015. Conversely, diversified transportation operator ComfortDelGro enhanced returns as lower fuel costs and an increase in public transport rates in Singapore are likely to boost its earrings. Online investment product distribution platform provider iFast gained on account of solid results.

The manager is focused on companies that are exposed to regional growth and have high quality management teams. The fund is biased towards banks, healthcare and IT stocks. Singaporean banks have robust balance sheets and are likely to benefit from rising interest rates. In addition, their diversified Asian operations should support loan and earnings growth. The allocation to DBS Group Holdings was raised. In healthcare, a position was bought in healthcare assets manager Religare Health Trust to benefit from an under-penetrated and growing Indian healthcare market. Meanwhile, the holding in hospital operator Raffles Medical Group was reduced following strong gains.

South East Asia Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 2,753 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia ex Japan equities gained over the period. Chinese and Hong Kong equities rose as the People's Bank of China cut its key interest rates and eased liquidity conditions to spur growth. The Taiwanese market was driven higher by information technology (IT) stocks that benefited from new technology product launches. Conversely, South Korean equities, particularly export-oriented companies, declined as unfavourable currency movements made exports less competitive in overseas markets. Indonesian equities fell towards the end of the period due to weak corporate results. At a sector level, telecommunications, IT and financials gained. Conversely, energy and materials tracked resource prices lower.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, due to adverse security selection in financials and telecommunications. The underweight stance in China Construction Bank and Bank of China hurt relative returns as their share prices rose in light of monetary easing in China. An underweight position in China Mobile also hampered relative performance as its share price rose in light of its cost reduction efforts and a joint venture with major Chinese peers to share tower assets. On a positive note, IT companies supported returns. Application software provider Sinosoft Technology Group added value as increased cooperation with Alibaba, one of its key shareholders, is likely to support growth.

The fund has overweight positions in the IT and healthcare sectors. In IT, the fund holds companies that are likely to benefit from rising internet usage and healthy demand for mobile devices globally. Contract chipmaker Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing is held to benefit from its technology and cost leadership, as well as from volume growth in components for low-end smart phones. Within healthcare, the manager purchased shares in drugmaker Sun Pharmaceutical Industries given its management's ability to identify growth opportunities ahead of its peers. The exposure to financials was raised. India's HDFC Bank was bought for its strong franchise, solid balance sheet and excellent execution.

Switzerland Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : CHF 389 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Swiss equities advanced over the 12 month period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market qains.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year due to unfavourable stock selection and sector positioning in consumer discretionary and industrials. Shares in online travel agency Bravofly Rumbo Group BV fell as it continued to face increased competition in its core markets. The structurally underweight stance in drug manufacturer Novartis also held back relative performance. Its shares rose after it forecast that its sales and profits would grow at a faster pace in 2015, driven by recent drug successes. On a positive note, shares in mechanical and electronic security systems provider Kaba Holding gained after it agreed to merge with Germany-based Dorma. Asset management group GAM Holding, which is a cashgenerative business with a shareholder friendly management team, also contributed to performance.

The fund has an overweight exposure to the industrials and materials sectors. Pharmaceutical group Tecan remains a preferred holding in the portfolio as it operates in attractive end-markets and is set to benefit from the increasing demand for better diagnostics and the focus on personalised medicine. Meanwhile, the manager bought a new holding in UBS Group as it benefits from a strong capital position, has significant barriers to entry and a high base of captive clients. A position was also initiated in healthcare company Bayer as it has strong growth potential in its pharmaceuticals and crop segments, driven by new product launches. Conversely, the holding in banking software company Temenos Group was sold due to concerns about sales execution in Asia.

Taiwan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 204 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Taiwanese stocks advanced despite periods of volatility during the review period. Investors were worried about a lack of catalysts for the Taiwanese information technology (IT) sector as iPhone6 demand was already factored into technology valuations. Nonetheless, healthy GDP growth data and reports that the Chinese securities regulator is assessing a stock-trading link between Shanghai and Taipei lifted sentiment and led to a rally towards the end of the period.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. Positions in smaller market capitalisation companies were caught in a wave of risk aversion and concerns over growth. The overweight positioning in IT impacted returns in this environment. Sentiment towards selected electronic equipment companies such as Tong Hsing Electronic Industries remained weak. The holding in Gigastorage was a key detractor from returns, and its subsidiary faced lower demand for solar power cells. Encouragingly, the exposure to Inotera Memories enhanced gains. The dynamic random-access memory (DRAM) chip manufacturer benefited from rising DRAM prices and strong demand. The position in Adlink Technology also added value. Its products are used for embedded computing, which enables blending smarter computing processes into a range of applications. The exposure to Egis Technology, a data encryption and biometrics technology provider, bolstered returns. Rising smart-device penetration supported demand for its fingerprint security solutions. Some profits were taken in these three holdings.

The fund is focused on structural growth trends, particularly in new and innovative technologies. The manager favours small-cap holdings that invest in research and development to drive new technological and innovative changes. A new position was purchased in Formosa Sumco Technology, which benefits from potential supply constraints in silicon wafers as demand for processing expands. The manager also favours selected financials such as CTBC Financial Holding, which is one of the most profitable domestic banks and a key position in the portfolio.

Thailand Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 508 MILLION

Manager's Overview

That equities gained over the period as the country's political climate stabilised following an army coup in May 2014. The army unveiled measures to revive growth after taking control of the government. The Bank of Thailand also cut its key interest rate in 2015, citing slower economic recovery. At a sector level, industrials, healthcare and utilities gained. The information technology (IT) sector rose, led by the strong performance of component exporters. Conversely, banks lagged the broader market amid weaker-than-expected results. Energy companies tracked crude oil prices lower. The telecommunications sector fell, partly due to a delay in fourth generation (4G) spectrum auction.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, led by rewarding stock selection in IT and financials. Shares in IT components exporters KCE Electronics and Hana Microelectronics gained on the back of solid earnings growth. These positions were subsequently reduced to lock-in gains. The position in Pruksa Real Estate added value as the property developer reported strong profits for 2014. Within materials, Tipco Asphalt enhanced gains as weak crude oil prices and strong asphalt demand for road-related projects in the Thai and overseas markets boosted its earnings. Conversely, selected industrials weighed on returns. The position in marine transportation firm Precious Shipping fell in light of weak freight rates and increased costs.

The manager focuses on building a portfolio that can outperform in both rising and falling markets. The fund has an overweight position in the telecommunications and IT sectors. Satellite services provider Thaicom is held for its positive earnings prospects. A new position was purchased in telecommunication infrastructure assets operator True Telecommunications Growth Infrastructure Fund for its solid earnings and cashflow visibility. The fund is biased towards the banking sector, but has an underweight position in consumer discretionary due to a subdued outlook for consumer spending.

United Kingdom Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : GBP 118 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The UK stock market advanced over the period, but experienced bouts of volatility, which kept overall gains limited. While the economic outlook remained positive, weak economic data and fears of deflation in the eurozone, the UK's main trading partner, undermined investor sentiment. In addition, geopolitical tensions and the uncertain lead up to the Scottish referendum, when the country would decide whether or not it would remain part of the UK, negatively impacted equities. Allied to this was the sharp drop in oil prices amid concerns about oversupply and weak global demand. On a positive note, pro-growth policies by leading central banks and continuing economic growth in the UK supported investor sentiment. At a sector level, technology and telecommunications led the broader market, while the resources sectors were the leading decliners.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by the strong performance of some key holdings across sectors. Notably, the position in Shire surged on a takeover bid by US drug company AbbVie. However, the deal was later called off. The allocation to housebuilder Taylor Wimpey also rose, driven by investor expectations of higher home building activity, servicing a pressing demand for properties across the country. The position in London Stock Exchange Group added value supported by its strong market position, favourable growth drivers and diversified revenue base.

The manager focuses on spotting long term, mispriced growth stories and favours companies with good management teams. He increased the exposure to mobile telecommunications major Vodafone Group as its growth prospects appear to have improved. The manager also bought a new position in online real estate agent Rightmove, a potential beneficiary of the improvement in the UK housing market. A new holding was purchased in telecommunications major BT Group, which acquired EE, the UK's largest mobile phone network. The deal has the potential for robust synergies, and will cement BT Group's status as the biggest player in the UK telecommunications market.

World Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 815 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global developed market equities rose over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility. Oil prices remained under pressure, which impacted energy sector positions.

The FF World fund was re-purposed in June 2014. This involved a change in its structure, portfolio manager, comparative index and base currency. However, it remains a diversified developed market global equity fund that is designed to provide long-term capital growth. Jeremy Podger took over the management of the fund on 16 June 2014. The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period, mainly due to strong security selection in the US, where he continues to find a number of interesting investment ideas. Within information technology (IT), the manager's decision to increase holdings in the semiconductor sector supported returns. Positions in Dutch chip maker NXP Semiconductors and Sumco, a beneficiary of the rise in chip production and addressable markets globally, contributed strongly to performance. In healthcare, holdings in Aetna, Mylan and Covidien added notable value. The allocation to the financials and consumer discretionary sectors also enhanced gains. Elsewhere, shares in Halliburton, Anadarko Petroleum, Oil Search and Hess, which tracked crude oil prices lower, detracted from performance.

The manager looks for three specific types of opportunities - change, value and franchise. Firms that fall under the "change" theme offer the potential for a fundamental shift in value, with the catalyst linked to near term restructuring, mergers and acquisitions and spin-off activity. "Value" companies have the ability to deliver earnings growth in excess of market expectations, potentially also leading to re-rating. "Franchise" firms have a dominant industry position, strong growth, cash flow and pricing power.

Fidelity Patrimoine 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 398 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds and cash over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. We began the period with an overweight allocation to equities, balanced by an underweight position in cash. This positioning added notable value as equities strongly outperformed cash. Within the equity segment, strong stock selection as well as an overweight allocation to the healthcare sector aided the performance of the underlying US and European holdings. An underweight position in the energy sector, which was negatively impacted by the sharp fall in oil prices, added further value to the US equity segment. Elsewhere, investment grade bond holdings enhanced relative gains. However, the allocation to bonds with short maturity periods and to high yield bonds detracted from performance as the European Central Bank (ECB) cut interest rates. Moreover, a rise in volatility, particularly in the second half of 2014, resulted in widening credit spreads. Weak commodity prices weighed on the commodity seament.

Towards the end of the period, the manager took profits in the equities segment, thereby reducing the overweight allocation to the asset class, and added to cash holdings. Within equities, he reduced the exposure to the US, where economic data has started to weaken and a strong US dollar is beginning to negatively impact the overseas earnings of US corporates. Instead, the manager raised positions in Europe, where economic data is beginning to improve and a weak euro is likely to support export-oriented companies.

Fidelity Sélection Europe ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 38 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro supported prospects for corporate earnings, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund performed broadly in line with the comparative index over the period. A number of holdings were supported by good growth prospects. In particular, the position in publisher Reed Elsevier contributed strongly to performance. The allocation to pharmaceuticals company Shire was buoyed by news of merger and acquisition prospects. The position was reduced after the significant rise in its share price. Elsewhere, the exposure to Fiat Chrysler Automobiles contributed to performance. The company posted higher sales for light trucks and cars and announced plans to launch 20 new models by 2016. On the other hand, underlying holdings in the utility sector detracted from returns. The underlying position in beverages company SABMiller also lagged the broader market, although the company is well placed to benefit from sales volumes growth in its end markets.

Attractively valued pharmaceuticals company Sanofi remains among the key positions in the portfolio. The company is expected to benefit from its focus on diabetes and exposure to emerging markets. Roche Holding and Novartis are also key positions. Meanwhile, the underlying holding in software company SAP was increased. New opportunities were also found in the financials sector, including banking stocks Banco Santander and Intesa Sanpaolo. Conversely, the position in insurer Aegon was sold.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, supported largely by strong stock selection in North America. In particular, underlying positions in the financials and healthcare sectors added value. For instance, the exposure to Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the US and from an ageing population contributed to returns. CVS Health Corp, which is well-positioned to benefit from its robust generic drug pipeline, also boosted performance. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced in order to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. The bias against UK equities and the high-conviction exposure to emerging markets also supported relative returns. In the European segment, stock selection by underlying managers in energy and financials companies aided performance. Elsewhere, returns from the Pacific ex Japan segment were boosted by performance of underlying holdings as well as by an underweight allocation to the region. However, this was partly offset by performance of select underlying holdings in Japanese equities.

The manager reduced the exposure to the US given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength. In contrast, the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness, was increased.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance. Japan and the US outperformed, while the UK lagged other regions.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, supported largely by strong stock selection by underlying managers in North America. In particular, positions in the financials and healthcare sectors added value. Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country, as well as from an ageing population, contributed to returns. CVS Health, which is wellpositioned to benefit from its robust generic drug pipeline, also boosted performance. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. The overall underweight stance in Europe, as well as underlying stock selection in the region's energy and financials sectors, supported performance. Other regions also contributed to returns. Not holding energy companies such as Exxon Mobil and Chevron added relative value. However, this was partly offset by stock selection in emerging markets.

The manager reduced the exposure to the US given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength, which is weighing on company earnings. In contrast, the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness, was increased.

FPS Moderate Growth Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 366 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance. Japan and the US outperformed other regions, while the UK lagged. Within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes as credit spreads widened.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. In terms of asset allocation, the tactical overweight position in equities, notably in North America and Japan, supported returns. The exposure to the financials and healthcare sectors in the North American segment added value. Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country as well as from an ageing population, contributed to returns. CVS Health Corp, which is well-positioned to benefit from the robust generic drug pipeline, boosted performance. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced in order to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. In the European segment, strong stock selection, coupled with an underweight allocation to financials, supported returns from underlying holdings. The Pacific ex Japan segment also added value. This was partly offset by selected holdings in bonds and Japanese equities.

The manager maintained preference for equities over bonds. Within the equity segment, the exposure to the US was reduced given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength. In contrast, the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness, was increased.

Euro Balanced Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1.154 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities rose over the period, supported by quantitative easing measures by the European Central Bank (ECB) and ongoing euro weakness. The equity segment of the portfolio performed better than the bond segment, although both made positive absolute contributions. German bunds generate positive returns and outperformed European corporate bonds. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also benefited from the combined effects of loose monetary policy and investors' continued search for yield. However, ongoing geopolitical tensions in Russia and the Middle East limited market returns.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. The overweight allocation to equities and underweight in bonds aided performance. Within the equity segment, both stock selection and sector positioning boosted returns. The exposure to the financials, healthcare and telecommunications sectors enhanced performance, while positioning in consumer staples and materials detracted from returns. Within financials, an underweight stance in some risky peripheral banks added value. For instance, the position in German residential property group GAGFAH boosted performance following a takeover offer; the underlying manager sold the position to take profits. On the other hand, new positions were purchased in ING Groep, Intesa Sanpaolo and Societe Generale in the financials sector. Within the bond portion of the portfolio, the overweight position and favourable selection in banks contributed to returns. The preference for lower rated investment grade securities such as Koninklijke Philips and Imperial Tobacco Group added value. The bias towards peripheral government bonds of Italy and Spain also boosted returns.

The manager increased the allocation to equities at the beginning of the review period, and reduced the allocation to bonds. Following the strong performance of equity holdings, profits were taken in the asset class. The proceeds were held as cash in order to facilitate future investment opportunities.

Global Multi Asset Income Fund ⁶

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 3.091 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The general level of interest rates and yields remained low during the period. Equities outperformed bonds, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance.

The fund delivered positive absolute returns over the period, and distributed income towards the higher end of its expected range. In terms of total returns, the allocation to equities benefited from the strong performance of the asset class. Elsewhere, returns from holdings in Asian and US high yield bonds and in emerging market debt were supported by investors' search for yield. The fund also holds non-traditional asset classes such as infrastructure, which typically offer attractive, growing dividends and some potential for capital growth. These holdings added value over the period. Conversely, returns from investment grade bonds were negatively impacted by the strength of the US dollar. The allocation to high yield bonds and loan strategies were the primary drivers of yield generated during the vear.

The managers monitor the market closely, and have the flexibility to adjust the fund's allocation based on changing market conditions. Despite the recent rise in market volatility, they believe that the macroeconomic environment remains favourable for growth, as subdued inflation enables central banks to maintain their supportive monetary policies. Therefore, they favour high yield bonds and dividend-paying equities at the expense of more traditional income asset classes, such as investment grade bonds, where yields remain at record lows. They also maintain an allocation to non-traditional sources of income such as infrastructure and loans.

Growth & Income Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 135 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the period, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, posed challenges to performance. Japan and the US outperformed other regions while the UK lagged. Within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes as credit spreads widened.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year. In terms of asset allocation, the tactical overweight in equities, notably in North America and Japan, supported returns. Among underlying holdings, the exposure to the financials and healthcare sectors in the North American segment added value. For instance, the position in Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country as well as from an ageing population, contributed to returns. CVS Health Corp, which is well-positioned to benefit from its robust generic drug pipeline, also boosted performance. The allocation to both stocks was reduced to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. Elsewhere, strong stock selection in Europe supported returns. The UK equity segment also added value. This was partly offset by performance of select underlying holdings in bonds and Japanese equities.

The manager increased the exposure to bonds, though the preference for equities over bonds was maintained. Within the equity segment, the allocation to the US was reduced given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength. In contrast, the position in Europe was marginally increased. The exposure to Japan was raised while the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan and UK equities was reduced.

Multi Asset Strategic Defensive Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 323 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Property shares and global equities outperformed other asset classes over the period. Stock markets were boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed other regions. Within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes. Elsewhere, low oil prices and slow growth in China, the largest consumer of industrial metals, weighed on commodities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by positions in equities and commodities, as well as underlying holdings in property shares. Based on a positive outlook for growth, the bias towards equities was maintained, which contributed to returns. The preference for Japanese equities was particularly supportive given the Bank of Japan's accommodative monetary policies. Consequently, holdings in Japan were increased over the period. The position in UK equities was also raised as improving growth in Europe supports the outlook for the country. Meanwhile, the overweight exposure to US equities as well as underlying holdings added value. However, towards the end of the period, the allocation to the country was reduced, as recent economic data in the US has been mixed. Underlying holdings in the bonds segment of the portfolio also supported performance. Overall, the allocation to bonds was reduced, but new positions were purchased in bonds that are likely to perform strongly once inflation begins to rise. Elsewhere, the exposure to property shares and cash was increased.

Multi Asset Strategic Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 514 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Property shares and global equities outperformed other asset classes over the period. Stock markets were boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed other regions. Within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes. Elsewhere, low oil prices and slow growth in China, the largest consumer of industrial metals, weighed on commodities.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by positions in equities and commodities, as well as underlying holdings in property shares. Based on a positive outlook for growth, the bias towards equities was maintained, which contributed to returns. The preference for Japanese equities was particularly supportive given the Bank of Japan's accommodative monetary policies. The overweight exposure to US equities as well as underlying holdings also added value. However, towards the end of the period, the allocation to the US was reduced as recent economic data in the country has been mixed. The exposure to Pacific ex Japan equities was also reduced, as the region's performance is likely to be hurt by slower growth in China. An underweight position in commodities supported relative performance. This position was further reduced due to the manager's negative outlook for commodity prices. Underlying holdings in the bond segment of the portfolio supported performance. Given the continued low inflation environment in most developed countries, new positions were purchased in bonds that are likely to perform strongly once inflation begins to rise. The exposure to property shares and cash was also increased.

Asian Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 58 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian investment grade bonds performed well during the period on the back of stable fundamentals and supportive monetary conditions. Central banks across the region reduced interest rates as inflationary pressures were contained. In particular, the People's Bank of China lowered both the benchmark interest rate and the reserve requirement ratio. Positive market sentiment and expectations of reforms post the Indonesian and Indian elections boosted performance. Elsewhere, the $\ensuremath{\mathsf{US}}$ Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme, while stating that it will continue to remain patient before tightening its monetary policy.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The manager was underweight in quasi sovereign bonds and in the banking sector due to their less attractive valuations. This detracted the most from relative performance as long duration assets performed strongly over the period. Meanwhile, an overweight stance in the basic industry, energy and property sectors contributed significantly to returns. The fund's interest rate strategy of maintaining a shorter duration position versus the comparative index also supported returns as US Treasuries rose on the back of stabilising economic data.

The fund remains invested in high-quality investment grade bonds while maintaining a short duration position versus the comparative index. The manager remains positive on the outlook for Asian credit given the current low interest rate environment and stabilisation in local economies. Asian investment grade bonds continue to offer investors an attractive opportunity and lower duration versus many US dollar denominated investment grade asset classes, providing a more defensive option amid potential rate increases.

Asian High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 2,907 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian high yield bonds generated positive returns during the period. Macroeconomic conditions in Asia, such as government reforms, accommodative monetary and fiscal policies, and disinflationary pressure from lower oil prices, were supportive for the asset class. The People's Bank of China eased its monetary policy over the period, reducing both official interest rates and the reserve requirement ratio. India and Indonesia saw positive momentum post their election results and the reforms undertaken by their respective new governments. Asian high yield bonds remained relatively resilient during this period when the US Federal Reserve ended its asset purchase programme and there was continued uncertainty regarding the timing of the first rate hike.

The fund's performance was primarily supported by strong credit selection. The overweight positions in the energy, property and consumer cyclical sectors contributed the most to performance. Conversely, underweight holdings in the banking sector detracted from relative returns.

The fund remains well positioned with a focus on high-conviction corporate bonds and higher rated credits. On a sector basis, the fund has an overweight position in property given accommodative monetary policies, improving market sentiment and attractive valuations. Meanwhile, the underweight stance in the basic industry sector was maintained due to concerns related to overcapacity in some sub-sectors and low conviction on prospects for improvement in the near-term (e.g. coal miners). Furthermore, the manager believes that income will be a meaningful driver of returns in 2015 and that active risk management will remain key to navigating volatility in the asset class. Looking ahead, focus remains on managing issuer and sector concentration risks that are unique to Asian high yield bonds, while aiming to deliver an attractive level of recurring income.

China RMB Bond Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 249 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The offshore RMB bond market, also known as the Dim Sum bond market, performed well despite some volatility towards the end of 2014/start of 2015. Market sentiment was weak; there were issuer specific concerns and a record new issuance over the period. Easing monetary policies, such as multiple interest rate cuts by the People's Bank of China and a reduced reserve requirement ratio amid moderating domestic growth, also supported the asset class. Furthermore, the Dim Sum bond market being of higher credit quality and shorter duration is considerably immune to the timing uncertainty surrounding the first US interest rate hike.

The fund generated positive returns over the year. In particular, positions in the banking, property and basic industry sectors contributed strongly to returns. The fund's focus on investment grade bonds, with a larger position in BBB-rated securities, also supported performance.

The fund remains well positioned, with a focus on investment grade securities, while maintaining an overall short duration position. From a sector perspective, the fund has a large bias towards the banking sector and a small exposure to the technology sector. The manager remains committed to building positions in high-conviction issuers, as well as maintaining suitable cash levels for new investment opportunities.

Core Euro Bond Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 286 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted modest gains over the period. Government bonds outperformed European corporate bonds, supported by the European Central Bank's (ECB) easing measures. Weak economic growth and low inflation ensured that the ECB maintained its easing bias. As such, the ECB lowered its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, while its deposit rate was reduced to -0.20%. The ECB also announced a quantitative easing programme of almost 1.1 trillion euros in order to support the flagging economy. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also advanced, benefiting from the combined effect of loose monetary policies and investors' continued search for yield. Macroeconomic data in the region remained encouraging, with GDP rising by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015 while inflation increased to 0% in April from -0.1% in March, bringing a four-month run of deflation to an end.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by its credit and interest rate strategy. The overweight position and favourable selection in banks such as Lloyds Banking Group was the top contributor to returns. The bias towards lower rated investment grade securities such as Koninklijke Philips and Imperial Tobacco Group also added value. The preference for peripheral government bonds of Italy and Spain boosted returns. Elsewhere, the fund's long duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) position in the euro enhanced gains, supported by the strong performance of German bunds.

Over the period, the manager bought new positions in euro denominated bonds of US and UK banks such as JP Morgan and RBS, respectively. The manager also increased the overweight holding in sterling non-financial corporates by purchasing a new position in Sky PLC. Elsewhere, profits were taken in Imperial Tobacco Group, Bureau Veritas and Rabobank. The fund's duration was increased by adding a long duration position in the euro. Elsewhere, the exposure to peripheral government bonds was reduced by taking profits in Italian government bonds following their strong rally.

Emerging Market Corporate Debt Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 84 MILLION

Manager's Overview

As indicated by the JP Morgan CEMBI Broad Diversified Index, emerging market corporate bonds outperformed their emerging market sovereign counterparts over the period. Returns were primarily driven by the decline in US Treasury yields. Risk sentiment improved as both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and the European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity to markets. The easy monetary policy stance of major global central banks continued to support investor demand for the asset class.

The fund posted positive returns and outperformed the comparative index, primarily due to its active relative value credit strategy. The overweight allocation to the basic industry and communications sectors supported returns. For instance, holdings in Chalieco Hong Kong Corporation, Play Topco and Wind Acquisition Finance added value. Conversely, the exposure to Pacific Rubiales Energy and Afren in the energy sector hampered returns. The fund's duration positioning was a broadly neutral contributor to performance. In terms of currencies, the small exposure to the Turkish lira and Mexican peso held back returns.

Bottom-up research continues to drive security selection and sector allocation, while the manager maintains a flexible approach to credit spreads and aggregate duration positioning. The fund has a small overweight credit beta (a measure of its sensitivity to credit spreads) position through a bias towards higher yielding bonds given the supportive demand environment for the asset class. At the sector level, the exposure to the energy sector was lowered by reducing holdings in Reliance and Zhaikmunai. The underweight stance in banks was also increased by selling the position in Bank of China. Conversely, new holdings were purchased in Union Andina and Southern Copper in capital goods and industrial space and Alibaba in the consumer sector. The fund retained its underweight duration position through a short position in US dollar duration.

Emerging Market Debt Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 1,206 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market hard currency sovereign bonds advanced over the year, benefiting from the fall in US Treasury yields. Risk sentiment improved as both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity to markets. Easy monetary policies pursued by major global central banks continued to support investor demand for the asset class. Most emerging markets generated positive returns, with Argentina among the notable performers. Ukraine was a significant laggard as fears over debt restructuring weighed heavily on the domestic bond market.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, primarily due to strong credit selection and favourable positioning in US dollar duration. The short-term tactical overweight position in sovereign bonds of Venezuela and underweight stance in Ukraine were the key contributors to performance. The high-conviction exposure to emerging market corporate bonds, including holdings in Greenland Global Investment, CITIC Pacific and Bharti Airtel also enhanced returns. While the manager looks to limit the exposure to emerging market currencies, long positions in the Malaysian ringgit and Brazilian real detracted from performance as the US dollar strengthened against major emerging market currencies. The US dollar has been strengthening on the back of the domestic economic recovery and the possibility that the US Federal Reserve will increase interest rates later in the year.

The manager focuses on relative value selection as a key driver of performance. The fund is currently underweight in emerging market sovereigns such as Indonesia and Turkey. Instead, the manager favours selected emerging market corporate bonds such as Turk Telekom and Petronas. The fund is neutral US dollar duration (sensitivity to interest rate changes versus the index). With local yields likely to rise in line with US Treasury yields, the manager does not have a significant position in emerging market local duration and also maintains a neutral holding in emerging market

Emerging Market Local Currency Debt Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 76 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market local currency government bonds fell over the year. This was mainly due to a decline in emerging market currencies, which ended the period in negative territory against the US dollar. The US dollar has been strengthening on the back of the domestic economic recovery and the possibility that the US Federal Reserve will increase interest rates later in the year.

The fund generated negative returns and underperformed the comparative index over the year. The long position in the Indonesian rupiah and the short position in the Israeli shekel were the key detractors from returns. These losses were offset by short positions in the Turkish lira and Russian rouble. Adverse positioning in lira denominated Turkish bonds and baht denominated Thai bonds also hurt returns, partially offset by rouble denominated Russian bonds and real denominated Brazilian bonds.

The manager continues to focus on adding value by purchasing selected attractively valued securities. Currently, the fund has an overall neutral stance in emerging market currencies. With local yields likely rise in line with US Treasury yields, the manager maintains flat to small long positions in aggregate local market duration and looks to purchase relative value positions. New holdings were purchased in local currency bonds of Mexico, Indonesia and Peru, while the exposure to Poland, South Africa and Russia was reduced.

Emerging Markets Inflation-linked Bond Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 198 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market local currency inflation-linked government bonds posted negative returns over the review period. While most emerging market inflation-linked bonds posted positive returns in local currency terms, returns in US dollar terms were negative given the strength of the currency. The nascent economic recovery in the US led to increased expectations for an interest rate rise in 2015, which could attract capital flows back into the US dollar. The currency strengthened against this backdrop.

The fund generated negative returns and underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overall short nominal duration (less sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) position was mainly driven by the short position in US Treasury futures. This proved detrimental to performance as US Treasuries rallied over the year. The overweight stance in Mexican peso real duration also weighed on returns as inflation showed signs of slowing down. Headline inflation data has broadly been in line with the Mexican central bank's target of 3%, and is expected to trend around that rate due to the slowdown in the economy.

The fund invests primarily in inflation-linked bonds issued by governments and government agencies in emerging countries. At the end of the period, the fund retained its long real duration position in the Mexican peso, Turkish lira and South African rand, and its short real position in the Brazilian real and Israeli shekel. The fund also maintained a short nominal position in the US dollar in anticipation of a rise in interest rates.

Euro Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 1.255 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted modest gains over the period. Government bonds outperformed European corporate bonds, supported by the European Central Bank's (ECB) easing measures. Over the period, the ECB lowered its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, while its deposit rate was reduced to -0.20%. The ECB also announced a quantitative easing programme of almost 1.1 trillion euros in order to support the flagging economy. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also advanced, benefiting from the combined effect of loose monetary policies and investors' continued search for yield. Macroeconomic data in the region remained encouraging, with GDP rising by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015 while inflation increased to 0% in April from -0.1% in March, bringing a four-month run of deflation to an end

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, driven by its credit and interest rate strategy. The overweight position and favourable selection in banks such as Bank of Scotland was the top contributor to returns. The bias towards lower rated investment grade securities such as Koninklijke Philips and Imperial Tobacco Group also added value. The preference for peripheral government bonds of Italy and Spain boosted returns. Elsewhere, the fund's long duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) position in euro, US dollar and sterling enhanced returns as core government bond yields slid.

The manager maintained the fund's long credit beta (a measure of its sensitivity to credit spreads) position by increasing the bias towards senior and subordinated bank debt. New positions were purchased in US and UK banks such as ABN Amro and RBS, respectively. The overweight holding in sterling non-financial corporates was also increased by purchasing a new position in Sky PLC. Elsewhere, profits were taken in Volkswagen and Wendel. The fund's duration was increased by adding long duration positions in the euro, US dollar and sterling. Elsewhere, the exposure to peripheral government bonds was reduced by taking profits in Italian government bonds

Euro Corporate Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 453 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted modest gains over the period. Government bonds outperformed European corporate bonds, supported by the European Central Bank's (ECB) easing measures. Over the period, the ECB lowered its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, while its deposit rate was reduced to -0.20%. The ECB also announced a quantitative easing programme of almost 1.1 trillion euros in order to support the flagging economy. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also advanced, benefiting from the combined effect of loose monetary policies and investors' continued search for yield. Macroeconomic data in the region remained encouraging, with GDP rising by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015 while inflation increased to 0% in April from -0.1% in March, bringing a four-month run of deflation to an end

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, mainly due to positive credit selection. The overweight position and favourable selection in banks such as Bank of Scotland was the top contributor to returns. The bias towards lower rated investment grade securities such as Actavis and Imperial Tobacco Group also added value. The preference for peripheral government bonds of Italy and Spain boosted returns. Elsewhere, the fund's long duration (more sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) position in US dollar and sterling enhanced returns as core government bond yields slid. These gains were partially offset by the fund's short euro duration position.

The manager maintained the fund's long credit beta (a measure of its sensitivity to credit spreads) position by increasing the bias towards subordinated bank debt. A new position was purchased in UK-based bank RBS, while the overweight holding in ING Bank was increased. Elsewhere, profits were taken in Clariant Finance and Svenska Handelsbanken. The fund's duration was increased by adding long duration positions in the euro, US dollar and sterling. Elsewhere, the exposure to peripheral government bonds was reduced by taking profits in Italian government bonds

Euro Short Term Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 802 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European corporate bonds with near-term maturity (1-3 years) generated positive returns over the period. Weak economic growth and low inflation ensured that the ECB maintained its easing bias. As such, the ECB lowered its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, while its deposit rate was reduced to -0.20%. The ECB also announced a quantitative easing programme of almost 1.1 trillion euros in order to support the flagging economy. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also advanced, benefiting from the combined effect of loose monetary policies and investors' continued search for yield. Macroeconomic data in the region remained encouraging, with GDP rising by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015 while inflation increased to 0% in April from -0.1% in March, bringing a four-month run of deflation to an end

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by its credit and interest rate strategy. The overweight position and favourable selection in banks such as Rabobank was the top contributor to returns. The bias towards lower rated investment grade securities such as Rci Banque and Tesco also added value. The preference for peripheral agreement bonds of Italy and Spain boosted returns. Conversely, the underweight stance in covered bonds detracted marginally from performance.

The manager maintained the fund's long credit beta (a measure of its sensitivity to credit spreads) position by increasing the bias towards subordinated bank debt. New positions were purchased in US banks such as ING Bank and ABN Amro Bank. The manager also increased the overweight holding in sterling non-financial corporates by purchasing a new position in Sky PLC. Elsewhere, profits were taken in Volkswagen and Bank of America. The fund's duration was increased by adding long duration positions in the euro and US dollar. Elsewhere, the exposure to peripheral government bonds was reduced by taking profits in Italian government bonds.

European High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 5.203 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European high yield bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both German bunds and investment grade corporate bonds over the period. Credit spreads widened in the second half of 2014 as increasing concerns about slowing growth and fears of a deflation in the eurozone weighed on sentiment. This was further compounded by the withdrawal of liquidity in the US, rising individual credit risk events and tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East. Markets also witnessed elevated volatility in 2015 as Greece and Russia continued to dominate headlines. Nevertheless, the asset class partially recovered after the European Central Bank (ECB) announced quantitative easing measures in January, which exceeded market expectations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year as security selection hurt returns. Specifically, the holding in Phones 4U was the most significant detractor from performance as it went into administration after Vodafone Group and EE did not renew their contracts with the company. Conversely, selective exposure to banks, particularly contingent convertible bonds of Credit Suisse Group and Credit Agricole enhanced gains. Consequently, the manager took partial profits in these bonds. Within the telecommunications sector, the overweight stance in Play Finance and Wind Acquisition Finance were key contributors to performance.

The fund's positioning remains balanced, with credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads) close to the neutral position. At the ratings level, the fund remains underweight in BB rated bonds, although the manager has added some positions in this space. He believes that high-grade investors will buy into lower-rated bonds as they search for yields. The fund is also overweight in lower-rated bonds, where the manager has strong conviction. At the sector level, the manager continues to prefer more defensive bonds in the communications sector; new positions were purchased in Altice, Play Finance and Telemar. The fund is underweight in cyclical corporates such as metals/mining, chemicals, retail and automobiles.

Global Corporate Bond Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 120 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the period. Government bond markets outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. The Bank of Japan and the European Central Bank embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity. This, combined with concerns over the pace of global growth, supported high-quality sovereign and investment grade corporate bonds. The exceptionally low levels of sovereign yields continued to push investors into riskier assets, which also supported demand for corporate bonds.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year, aided by favourable security selection. At the sector level, positions in Sumitomo Mitsui, Lloyds TSB Bank and National Westminster Bank in the banking sector were among the key contributors to returns. Among non-financials, the underweight stance in the utility sector supported relative performance. The holding in First Hydro contributed to returns. The fund's hedging strategy, through the sale of index credit default swaps protection, also buoyed performance. Conversely, the overweight stance in the basic industry sector, including holdings in FMG Resources and Cobre Del Mayo detracted from returns. The allocation to Russian Rail in the transportation sector also hampered performance.

The fund retained its overweight credit beta position (wherein the fund is more sensitive to changes in credit risk than the comparative index). At the sector level, the manager reduced the underweight stance in financials by purchasing holdings in the banking sector. New positions were purchased in Caixabank and Intesa Sanpaolo, while the holding in Credit Suisse Group was raised. The underweight stance in utilities was also reduced. Conversely, the allocation to consumer non-cyclicals was lowered, although the fund retained the overall overweight stance in the sector. For instance, holdings in Anheuser-Busch InBev, ConAgra Foods and Express Scripts Holding were sold.

Global High Grade Income Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 308 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global government bond markets performed strongly over the review period and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. Both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity to markets. The large decrease in headline inflation rates due to a significant fall in oil prices combined with concerns over the pace of global growth proved supportive for high quality sovereign and corporate bonds. High yield corporate bonds also posted positive returns but underperformed investment grade corporate bonds as a rise in volatility, particularly in the second half of 2014, resulted in widening credit spreads.

At the end of the period, the fund held 100% of its assets in government bond issues. The fund generated negative returns, with currency exposure detracting from performance. Over the period, all currencies that were held in the fund weakened against the US dollar. As a result, the broad diversified basket of currency exposure proved detrimental to performance. Specifically, the Swedish krona and Norwegian krone were the biggest detractors from returns. However, income from bonds continued to support overall performance.

The fund continues to seek diversification and income by investing in high-quality and low duration government and government-related bonds of relatively short maturities, usually less than two years. The fund invests in an equally weighted basket of ten currencies in order to take advantage of favourable currency movements versus the US dollar. The manager looks to allocate funds to the highest yielding currencies and issues. Over the period, the fund's duration was marginally increased from 1.2 years to 1.3 years. The fund currently holds close to an equal weighted exposure to Australia, Canada, New Zealand, Mexico, Norway, Singapore, South Africa, Sweden, the UK and the US.

Global High Yield Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 145 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global high yield bonds posted positive returns and outperformed both government and investment grade bonds over the year. Record low yields on government bonds prompted investors to search for yield, leading to increased demand for higher yielding corporate bonds. Demand was further supported by an improvement in investor risk sentiment, which was driven by encouraging economic data. At a regional level, European high yield bonds outperformed their US counterparts as the European Central Bank's (ECB) bond buying programme proved supportive for these bonds. US high yield returns were negatively impacted by the sell-off in energy securities as oil prices fell to a five-year low.

The fund posted positive returns but underperformed the comparative index over the period. The underweight stance in BB rated bonds such as National Westminster Bank and T-Mobile was a key detractor from returns. This was partially offset by the overweight stance in single-B rated securities, including Unicredit and Entegris. At a sector level, the bias towards basic industry through positions in Magnetation and Modular Space weighed on performance. Adverse selection in the energy sector, such as holdings in Hercules Offshore and American Energy, also held back returns.

The manager maintained a broadly neutral credit beta position (a measure of the fund's sensitivity to credit spreads) versus the comparative index. At a sector level, the manager moved to an overweight position in the consumer non-cyclical sector by adding holdings in Radiation Therapy Services and ConvaTec Finance Int'l. The consumer cyclical sector was also moved to an overweight stance via new positions in Schaeffler Holdings and Cirsa Funding. Conversely, the energy sector was moved to an underweight position by reducing the allocation to Petroleos de Venezuela and selling the holding in Gulfport Energy. On a regional basis, the exposure to the US was raised by purchasing new positions in Advanced Micro Devices and Comcel Trust

Global Income Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 142 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the year. Core government bonds rallied and outperformed corporate bonds as central banks retained their accommodative monetary policies. Investment grade corporate bonds also generated modest returns over the period. High yields bonds faced a few challenges, including a fall in oil prices and rising concerns over Greece's debt refinancing. Despite this, the asset class posted modest gains. At a regional level, European high yield bonds outperformed their US counterparts, supported by the European Central Bank's (ECB) bond buying programme. US high yield returns were negatively impacted by the sell-off in the energy sector as oil prices fell to a fiveyear low. Emerging market bonds also posted modest returns as investors preferred these assets in their search for yields.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the period. The underweight stance in single-B rated securities such as HCA and Sprint weighed on performance. Adverse selection in energy also held back gains. Positions in Hercules Offshore, Pacific Rubiales and American Energy were among the key detractors from returns. This was partially offset by favourable selection in the basic industry sector, where holdings in Alcoa and Bayer added value. The fund's interest strategy also enhanced gains as the long euro duration generated positive returns.

The manager maintained an underweight stance in investment grade bonds as valuations look fair. However, in order to maintain the fund's investment grade rating, this underweight holding was offset by the tactical positioning in government bonds and cash. Within high yield bonds, the exposure to BB and single-B rated securities, especially US corporates such as Zimmer Holdings and Actavis, was increased. At a sector level, the allocation to financials was reduced by selling holdings in Goldman Sachs and BPCE Bank. Instead, the manager increased the exposure to consumer non-cyclical securities such as Roche Holding and Medtronic. Holdings in emerging market bonds were also increased.

Global Inflation-linked Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 1.152 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global inflation-linked bonds advanced over the year but posted mixed returns compared to their nominal counterparts. Returns on inflation-linked bonds were largely driven by the rally in nominal government bonds, even though inflation breakevens (the difference in yield between nominal and inflation-linked bonds of the same maturity and a gauge of inflationary expectations) narrowed. Inflation in most major economies, including the US, the UK and the eurozone, continued to miss central banks' targets. Weak wage growth and no clarity on the timing of the interest rate hike by the US Federal Reserve weighed on inflation expectations in the second quarter of 2014. In the second half of 2014, crude oil prices fell by over 50%. Consequently, both headline inflation and breakevens declined. Since January 2015, however, oil prices have begun to rebound. This has helped to support breakevens and headline inflation has started to stabilise.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The short nominal duration stance (less sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index), caused by short positions in government bond futures, hampered performance as most government bonds rallied. These losses were partially offset by the long real duration position. In particular, the overweight allocation to US Treasury Inflation Protected Securities (TIPS) and inflation-linked Gilts and German bunds added value. Elsewhere, the small exposure to corporate bonds posted mixed returns. While US holdings detracted from performance, European positions contributed to returns

Currently, the fund is overweight in real duration, mainly through positions in the euro and the US dollar. The manger bought new holdings in inflation-linked Spanish and Italian bonds following a change in the index. Positions in TIPS and German inflation-linked bonds were reduced, but the overall overweight stance was retained. The exposure to inflation-linked New Zealand government bonds was sold, while the moderate allocation to high-quality investment grade corporate bonds was retained.

Global Strategic Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 782 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the 12 months under review. Global government bond markets performed strongly over the period and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. Both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and the European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity. This, combined with concerns over the pace of global growth, proved supportive for high-quality sovereign and corporate bonds. The exceptionally low levels of sovereign yields continued to push investors into riskier assets, which supported demand for corporate bonds.

The fund recorded negative total returns over the period. Approximately 60% of the fund's assets are denominated in currencies other than the US dollar, with asset values converted into the US dollar, the fund's base currency. This proved detrimental to performance given the significant strengthening of the US dollar against most major currencies. Losses were, however, partially offset by a rally in most fixed income assets. As a result, the fund's absolute performance was supported by the exposure to nominal and inflation-linked government bonds, investment grade corporate bonds, high yield and emerging market debt. Relative to the aggregate bond index though, the fund's performance suffered due to its shorter duration.

The fund primarily invests in a diversified portfolio of fixed income securities, including global government and corporate debt. During the year, the manager reduced the exposure to nominal government bonds by reducing holdings in US Treasuries and German bunds. Conversely, the fund's real duration position was increased, mainly through higher allocation to Treasury -inflation protected securities. The exposure to corporate bonds was also increased through careful security selection. For instance, within financials, the allocation to Intesa Sanpaolo and Morgan Stanley was increased, while a new position was purchased in CaixaBank. Conversely, holdings in Anheuser-Busch InBev, Robert Bosch and BBVA were sold.

International Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 329 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Fixed income markets posted positive returns over the review period. Global government bond markets performed strongly and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. Both the Bank of Japan and the European Central Bank embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity. This, combined with concerns over the pace of global growth, proved supportive for high-quality sovereign and corporate bonds. The exceptionally low levels of sovereign yields continued to push investors into riskier assets, which supported demand for corporate bonds.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year. The overall short duration position (less sensitive to interest rate changes than the comparative index) proved detrimental to performance as core government bonds rallied. In particular, the underweight stance in sterling duration weighed on returns, but losses were partially offset by the favourable positioning in US Treasuries. The fund's favourable credit strategy also aided performance. Holdings in Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group and Lloyds TSB Bank in the financials sector and First Hydro in the utilities sector added value. Conversely, the overweight position in telecommunications, through the exposures to Time Warner Cable, Telefonica Emisiones and Orange, hampered performance.

The manager increased the overall short duration stance by raising the underweight position in sterling nominal duration. Conversely, the exposure to euro duration was increased to an overweight stance. Elsewhere, the overweight allocation to corporate bonds was increased. However, the bias towards the lower part of the investment grade asset class was retained as the manager believes it offers adequate compensation for the underlying risks. The overweight allocation to the banking sector was increased by purchasing holdings in Caixabank and Intesa Sanpaolo. The bias towards the telecommunications sector was reduced by lowering the holding in Comcast.

Sterling Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : GBP 183 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Sterling denominated bonds rallied over the review period on the back of broader market sentiment. UK government bond (Gilts) yields fell as weaker growth and inflation data eased fears of an earlier-than-expected interest rate rise. The official Consumer Price Index (CPI) continued on a downward trend, remaining significantly below the Bank of England's (BoE) 2% target rate. BoE Governor Mark Carney also stressed that when the central bank eventually decides to raise interest rates, "it is expected to do so only gradually and to remain below average historical levels for some time to come". UK corporate bonds also advanced given the broader flight to quality and the rally in core government bonds.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, mainly due to adverse security selection. Specifically, the overweight stance in Time Warner Cable was the biggest detractor from returns as its merger deal with Comcast fell through due to regulatory pushback. The overweight allocation to Tesco also hampered performance as the company was downgraded following a series of profit warnings. The position was subsequently reduced. On a positive note, the fund's interest rate strategy supported returns. The small exposure to US dollar duration added value as US Treasury yields fell. The fund's favourable yield curve positioning also contributed to returns.

The fund remains overweight in corporate bonds with a bias towards lower rated investment grade bonds, which offer attractive yields compared to Gilts. At the sector level, the fund is biased towards non-cyclical, well regulated-sectors with strong asset backing. This translates into a preference for defensive sectors such as $consumer\ staples,\ telecommunications,\ transportation\ and\ high-quality\ asset-backed$ securities. Over the period, the exposure to British American Tobacco and GlaxoSmithKline was reduced, while new positions were purchased in Roche Holding, Wal-Mart Stores and SES. The fund remains underweight in financials with the exception of covered bonds, which offer a high level of investor protection.

US Dollar Bond Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 679 MILLION

Manager's Overview

In the US, investment grade corporate bonds outperformed both government bonds and high yield corporate bonds over the period. Economic growth accelerated in 2014, hitting a high of 5% in the third quarter of 2014. This, along with a steady fall in unemployment, led the US Federal Reserve (Fed) to end its quantitative easing programme in October. More recent data, however, indicates a slowdown in the pace of growth. For instance, GDP growth in the first quarter of 2015 slowed down to 0.2% annualised, trailing market expectations and coming in significantly below the figure for the previous quarters. This, coupled with a fall in inflation due to oil price volatility, pushed yields on US Treasuries lower.

The fund's performance was primarily supported by favourable security selection in the corporate bond portfolio. In particular, favourable selection in the energy sector added value. The sell-off caused by the oil price volatility, especially over the second half of 2014, provided attractive buying opportunities. For instance, the manager bought holdings in Continental Resources and Apache, which supported returns as oil prices subsequently recovered. Both positions were sold to take profits. Selection in the consumer non-cyclical sector, such as holdings in Heinz and Salix Pharmaceuticals, also boosted performance. Elsewhere, the fund's interest rate strategy, through favourable positioning in US Treasuries, added some value.

From a small underweight position at the start of the period, the manager moved to an overweight stance in US dollar duration. He believes that markets are overly optimistic about US GDP growth, which has the potential to disappoint over the short term. In such a scenario, demand for safe-haven government debt would increase. Elsewhere, the bias towards corporate bonds was retained. At the sector level, an overweight exposure to the technology sector was achieved through a new holding in Oracle. Conversely, the fund moved to an underweight stance in financials by selling positions in Bank of America and Intesa Sanpaolo.

US High Yield Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 5,504 MILLION

Manager's Overview

In the US, high yield corporate bonds lagged the rest of the bond market over the period, following a strong multi-year run. High yield investments, which offer potentially higher returns — as well as higher risk — than most bonds, began losing momentum in July 2014. Investors fled the asset class at a record pace amid a slowdown in global growth. Comments by US Federal Reserve Chair Janet Yellen about potentially stretched valuations and plunging oil prices due to weak demand and a surge in US production also weighed on the asset class. However, high yield markets rebounded in early 2015, as oil prices stabilised and investors' risk appetite increased.

The fund generated positive returns over the period and outperformed the comparative index. Security selection in utilities and an underweight stance in the energy sector were the key contributors to returns. In the utility sector, the majority of the outperformance came from TXU Energy; this holding was raised during the period. Meanwhile, the decision to remain underweight in the energy sector added relative value given the steep decline in oil prices in 2014. Elsewhere, security selection in the diversified financials sector through the exposure to International Lease Finance supported returns. Conversely, the overweight allocation to Cumulus Media in the broadcasting sector was the largest detractor from performance. Security selection in the containers and services industries also weighed on returns.

High yield corporate bonds are likely to see continued strong demand as investors continue to search for yields. Over the year, the manager reduced the overweight stance in the telecommunications sector. For instance, holdings in Clear Channel and Wide Open West were sold and the exposure to Intelsat and Dish DBS was reduced. Conversely, the overweight allocation to the utility sector was increased by purchasing a new position in Dynegy. Elsewhere, the overweight allocation to financials was increased by raising the position in Royal Bank of Scotland in the banking sector.

Fixed Term 2018 Fund 1,4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 179 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global government bond markets performed strongly over the review period and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. Both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity to markets. The significant fall in oil prices led to a large decrease in headline inflation rates. This, combined with concerns over the pace of global growth, proved supportive for high quality sovereign and corporate bonds. High yield corporate bonds also posted positive returns, but underperformed investment grade corporate bonds as a rise in volatility, particularly in the second half of 2014, resulted in widening credit spreads.

The portfolio advanced over the period as income was the primary driver of returns. In particular, high yielding bonds issued by companies with defensive business profiles such as Vantage Oncology and Marfrig contributed strongly to performance. The moderate, but well diversified, exposure to Russian companies also supported returns. Holdings in Russian banks, including VTB and Russian Agricultural Bank, boosted performance as the government made it clear that quasi-sovereign banks remain fully supported through new state capital, forbearance on regulatory accounting rules and continued provision of rouble and US dollar funding.

The portfolio aims to deliver an attractive yield relative to that of quality global government bonds by investing primarily in corporate debt securities issued globally. It invests primarily in investment grade and high yield corporate bonds with maturity date close to 31 December 2018. High yield corporate bonds constitute 45% of the portfolio's total assets, while investment grade credit accounts for the rest. Emerging market issuers continue to constitute around 35% of the portfolio. At a sector level, the biggest exposure is to banks and brokers (at 22%), with a new position purchased in Morgan Stanley. The allocation to the consumer sector was increased by purchasing holdings in online retailer Alibaba and automaker Aston Martin.

Euro Cash Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 229 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The European Central Bank (ECB) announced a series of monetary easing measures during the period to stimulate the economy and to stabilise falling prices in the eurozone. These included the introduction of negative deposit rates, lowering its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, the launch of targeted long-term refinancing operations (TLTRO) and asset-backed securities and covered bond purchase programme. In its final push to shore up inflation and improve credit conditions, the ECB announced a quantitative easing programme and pledged to buy 60 billion euros of government bonds every month through September next year. Meanwhile, economic activity in the region was encouraging, with a return to expansion in France and Italy. Subsequently, eurozone GDP rose by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015. Spain's economic growth accelerated in the first quarter to 0.9%, the fastest rate of expansion since the end of 2007. Eurozone inflation rose to zero in April, ending a fourth-month stretch of price declines across the region. Euro money market rates ended the period lower, with the 3-month euro London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) edging into negative territory in early 2015.

Maintaining a flexible approach to yield curve positioning has enabled the manager to enhance the portfolio's yield during periods of positive market sentiment. The manager focused on enhancing yield by extending maturities in preferred issuers, while adhering to the fund's strict credit quality and liquidity criteria. At the end of the review period, the fund's weighted average maturity (WAM) stood at 59 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with the exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 23.4%. The portfolio is also well diversified across regions; issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK, the US, Japan and Sweden. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with approximately 26.9% of net assets maturing at 30 days or less.

US Dollar Cash Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 896 MILLION

Manager's Overview

The US Federal Reserve (Fed) ended its bond buying programme in October as the country's economic growth accelerated. The economy grew at an annual pace of 2.4% in 2014, the strongest growth on record since the recession. However, the Fed maintained that its interest rate will likely remain low for some time. This stance was further supported as the economic expansion slowed in the first quarter of 2015. GDP expanded by a mere 0.2% annual rate in the January – March period that was marked by severe weather, a strong US dollar that hurt exports and a steep fall in investment by energy companies as oil prices declined. The job market also weakened, with only 85,000 jobs added in March, after adding more than 200,000 jobs in the previous 13 months. In its April monetary policy meeting, the Fed said that the pace of job gains moderated and the economy slowed, pushing back expectations of an interest rate hike towards the latter half of 2015. Meanwhile, inflation climbed higher with core Consumer Price Index (CPI) rising by 1.8% from last year in March. The three-month US dollar London Interbank Offered Rate (LIBOR) trended higher and is now around 0.28%.

The fund's relatively long weighted average maturity (WAM) was maintained to pick up incremental yield from the term premium. WAM was the main driver of returns as the fund's credit risk is kept to a minimum. The manager holds a large portion of the portfolio in highly liquid securities in accordance with the key aim of maintaining liquidity and capital preservation. At the end of the review period, the WAM stood at 53 days.

The portfolio strategy remains conservative. The focus on credit quality remains high, with the exposure to issuers rated Aa3 or higher at 50.5%. The portfolio is also well diversified across region; issuers in the fund are domiciled in core eurozone countries, the UK, Japan and Sweden. A high level of liquidity is maintained, with 18.5% of net assets maturing at 7 days or less.

MoneyBuilder Europe Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 12 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro supported prospects for corporate earnings, thereby boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven by both stock selection and sector allocation by underlying managers. In particular, the exposure to the financials and healthcare sectors enhanced performance. Within financials, the cautious stance in risky peripheral banks buoyed relative returns. In healthcare, the allocation to pharmaceuticals company Shire was supported by news of merger and acquisition prospects. Elsewhere, the new underlying position in Fiat Chrysler Automobiles advanced. The company posted higher sales for light trucks and cars and announced plans to launch 20 new models by 2016. Cash-generative stocks, such as Reed Elsevier, were also among the key contributors to performance.

Overall, technology and healthcare are the key overweight sectors, while underlying managers are finding fewer opportunities in materials and energy. An underweight stance in financials was also maintained. However, within the sector, the underlying position in Allianz was reduced to increase the holding in AXA, which is trading at better valuations. The exposure to Credit Suisse Group was increased, and a new position was purchased in Banco Santander as these companies are well-positioned to benefit from the restructuring efforts of their new management teams. A new position was purchased in Zurich Insurance Group given its attractive stock valuation and divided yield. On the other hand, underlying managers took profits in Actelion and Continental as their stocks were re-rated.

MoneyBuilder European Bond Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 9 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European bonds posted modest gains over the period. Government bonds outperformed European corporate bonds, supported by the European Central Bank's (ECB) easing measures. The ECB lowered its benchmark interest rate to 0.05%, while its deposit rate was reduced to -0.20%. The ECB also announced a quantitative easing programme of almost 1.1 trillion euros in order to support the flagging economy. Peripheral government bonds of Spain and Italy also advanced, benefiting from the combined effect of loose monetary policies and investors' continued search for yield. Macroeconomic data in the region remained encouraging, with GDP rising by 0.4% in the first quarter of 2015 while inflation increased to 0% in April from -0.1% in March, bringing a four-month run of deflation

The fund performed in line with the comparative index over the period. In the Euro Bond Fund, the overweight position and favourable selection in banks such as Bank of Scotland was the top contributor to returns. The bias towards lower rated investment grade securities such as Koninklijke Philips and Imperial Tobacco Group also added value. The preference for peripheral government bonds of Italy and Spain boosted returns. In the European High Yield Fund, adverse credit selection hurt returns. Specifically, the holding in Phones 4U was the most significant detractor from performance as it went into administration after Vodafone Group and EE, another significant client, did not renew their contracts with the company.

Within the Euro Bond Fund, profits were taken in corporate bonds of Volkswagen and Wendel. The exposure to peripheral government bonds was also lowered by taking profits in Italian government bonds. The manager reduced the exposure to this fund over the period. In the European High Yield Fund, the positioning remains balanced, with credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads) close to the neutral position. At the sector level, the preference for more defensive bonds in the communications sector was maintained. As a result, new positions were purchased in Altice, Play Finance and Telemar.

MoneyBuilder Global Fund 1,4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 22 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-months to April 2015, boosted by central bank policies in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to support growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and $\operatorname{China},\ \operatorname{posed}$ challenges to performance. Japan and the US outperformed while the UK lagged other regions.

The fund outperformed the comparative index, supported largely by strong stock selection and the overweight position in North America. In particular, underlying positions in the financials and healthcare sectors added value. For instance, the exposure to Express Scripts Holding, which stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country, as well as from an ageing population, contributed to returns. $\ensuremath{\mathsf{CVS}}$ Health Corp, which is well-positioned to benefit from its robust generic drug pipeline, also boosted performance. The exposure to both these stocks was reduced. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. The underweight stance in Europe, as well as stock selection by underlying managers in the region's energy and financials companies, aided performance. Elsewhere, returns from the emerging markets segment were boosted by strong stock selection, as well as an underweight allocation to the region. This was partially offset by negative returns from Pacific ex

The manager reduced the exposure to the US given weakening growth and continued US dollar strength. In contrast, the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness, was increased.

Fidelity Target™ 2020 Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 30 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equity markets rose over the 12-month period. US equities advanced, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. The Federal Reserve (Fed) remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014. In Europe, the European Central Bank's announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015 exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period. The exposure to US equities enhanced returns as positioning in the healthcare sector proved rewarding. The holding in specialty pharmaceuticals manufacturer Mallinckrodt enhanced gains on the back of its inorganic growth strategy. In Europe, good growth prospects and positive news bolstered equity market performance. Budget airline Ryanair Holdings added value as share prices surged following encouraging second-half 2014 results. Security selection in the Asia Pacific ex Japan region also added value, mainly on account of robust gains in China. In contrast, the exposure to Japan and Australia disappointed.

The US remains the largest position in the fund. However, the overall allocation to the region was reduced over the period due to concerns about the outlook for the economy and rising valuations. Moreover, the strong US dollar diminishes the value of overseas profits. The fund also holds a significant but underweight stance in European equities. A weakening euro continues to enhance the region's export competitiveness, while lower oil prices boost real disposable income. Meanwhile, the fund is overweight in Japan and Asia Pacific ex Japan given their healthy economic outlook as the implementation of structural reforms and stabilisation in the political environment is likely to boost growth.

Fidelity Target[™] 2015 (Euro) Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 80 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the 12-months to April 2015, supported by central banks in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to boost growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed other regions, while the UK lagged. Elsewhere, within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes as credit spreads widened.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2015. The allocation to equities as well as bonds was reduced significantly and the allocation to cash was raised as the fund nears its target date.

Following the migration path, the fund had a significant holding in bonds with short maturity periods. These bonds are relatively less sensitive to changes in interest rates than longer maturity bonds (their prices tend to rise less than those of longer maturity bonds when interest rates fall). Holdings in the European fixed income segment detracted from relative returns as the European Central Bank cut interest rates during the period. Positions in the Japanese and emerging markets equity segments also weighed on performance. The losses were partly offset by the exposure to the financials and healthcare sectors in the North American segment. In the European equity segment, strong stock selection, coupled with an underweight allocation to financials, proved rewarding.

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the 12-months to April 2015 supported by central banks in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to boost growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and $\operatorname{China},$ led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed other regions while UK lagged. Elsewhere, within bonds, government bonds outperformed other fixed income asset classes as credit spreads widened.

The fund's performance was supported largely by the North American and European equities as well as the fixed income segment. Selected positions in the financials and healthcare sectors proved rewarding for the underlying North American holdings. For instance, Express Scripts Holding stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country, as well as from an ageing population, while CVS Health Corp has a robust generic drug pipeline. Underlying exposure to both these stocks was reduced to take profits, while a new position was bought in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. Stock selection among energy and financials companies aided the performance of underlying strategies in the European segment. The emerging markets, Pacific ex Japan and Canadian equities also added value.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2020. The allocation to equities was reduced, while the allocation to bonds was increased. The manager reduced exposure to North America given weakening growth in the region and ongoing $\overline{\text{US}}$ dollar strength, which is weighing on the earnings of companies. Elsewhere, the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets was reduced, as the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenges.

This positive performance was partially offset by stock selection by underlying Japanese managers in the information technology sector.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2035. The allocation to equities, in particular emerging markets, was reduced, while the allocation to bonds was increased in line with the roll down model. The manager increased exposure to Japan, where the weaker yen, lower oil prices and stimulus measures from the Bank of Japan support the outlook for equities. Elsewhere, the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan was reduced, as the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenaes.

Selected positions in the financials and healthcare sectors proved rewarding for the underlying North American holdings. For instance, Express Scripts Holding stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country, as well as from an ageing population, while CVS Health Corp has a robust generic drug pipeline. Underlying exposure to both the stocks was reduced to take profits, while a new position was bought in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. Stock selection among energy and financials companies aided the performance of underlying strategies in the European segment. The emerging market and Pacific ex Japan holdings also added value. This positive performance was partially offset by stock selection by underlying Japanese managers in the information technology sector.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2045. The manager increased exposure to Japan, where the weaker yen, lower oil prices and stimulus measures from the Bank of Japan support the outlook for equities. Elsewhere, the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan was reduced, as the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenges.

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the 12-months to April 2015 supported by central banks in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to boost growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed while the UK lagged other regions.

The fund's performance was supported largely by the North American and European equities segments. Selected positions in the financials and healthcare sectors proved rewarding for the underlying North American holdings. For instance, Express Scripts Holding stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the country, as well as from an ageing population, while CVS Health Corp has a robust generic drug pipeline. Underlying exposure to both the stocks was reduced to take profits. A new position was bought in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. Stock selection among energy and financials companies aided the performance of underlying strategies in the European segment. The emerging market and Pacific ex Japan holdings also added value. This positive performance was partially offset by stock selection by underlying Japanese managers in the information technology sector.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist of 100% cash at the end of 2050. The allocation to equities, in particular emerging markets, was reduced, while the allocation to bonds was increased in line with the roll down model. The manager increased exposure to Japan, where the weaker yen, lower oil prices and stimulus measures from the Bank of Japan support the outlook for equities. Elsewhere, the allocation to Asia Pacific ex Japan was reduced, as the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenges.

Fidelity Institutional Target[™] 2015 (Euro) Fund ^{1,4,5}

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 130 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the period since the fund's launch, supported by the announcement of the European Central Bank's (ECB) quantitative easing measures, which exceeded market expectations. The People's Bank of China (PBoC) launched pro-growth policy measures and several other central banks announced easing measures that supported investor sentiment. Uncertainty about the timing of US interest rate increases, as well as concerns over debt problems in Greece and ongoing geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and Ukraine, led to periods of volatility. At the regional level, Japan and Europe outperformed other regions. Among European bonds, high yield bonds outperformed other segments as credit spreads tightened. Government bonds benefited from the ECB's easing programme.

The fund performed in line with the comparative index over the period since launch. It follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist mainly of cash and bonds at the end of 2015. Consequently, the allocation to equities as well as bonds was reduced and the exposure to cash was increased as the fund nears its target date.

Following the migration path, the fund had a significant holding in bonds with short maturity periods. These bonds are less sensitive to changes in interest rates than longer maturity bonds (their prices tend to rise less than those of longer maturity bonds when interest rates fall). Holdings in these short maturity bonds detracted from relative returns as the ECB maintained an easing bias during the period. This was offset by holdings in investment grade government and corporate bonds. The performance of underlying US holdings was supported by strong stock selection in the energy and industrials sectors. However, in the emerging markets equity segment, stock selection by the underlying manager in the financials sector detracted from returns.

Fidelity Institutional Target[™] 2045 (Euro) Fund ^{1,4,5}

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 4 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities outperformed bonds over the period since the fund's launch, supported by the announcement of the European Central Bank's (ECB) quantitative easing measures, which exceeded market expectations. The People's Bank of China (PBoC) launched pro-growth policy measures and several other central banks announced easing measures that supported investor sentiment. Uncertainty about the timing of US interest rate increases, as well as concerns over debt problems in Greece and ongoing geopolitical tensions in the Middle East and Ukraine, led to periods of volatility. At the regional level, Japan and Europe outperformed other regions. Among European bonds, high yield bonds outperformed other segments as credit spreads tightened. Government bonds benefited from the ECB's easing programme.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since launch, supported largely by the US equity segment. Strong stock selection in the energy and industrials sectors supported returns from the underlying US holdings, while selected positions in the information technology sector supported returns from Canada. The allocation to European equities also added value. The performance of the Pacific ex Japan segment was aided by stock selection in the information technology and utilities sectors. However, this was offset by the emerging markets equity segment, where stock selection by the underlying manager in the financials sector detracted from returns.

The fund follows a monthly migration path towards the final portfolio, which will consist mainly of cash and bonds at the end of 2045. Currently, the fund has no allocation to bonds or cash.

FAWF Asian Special Situations Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 44 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asian equities rose over the year. Investor sentiment was supported by interest rate cuts by leading regional central banks, signalling their commitment to bolster economic activity. Policymakers and governments in these economies also introduced a series of reform measures. The Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect also got underway, opening up the Chinese A-share market to foreign investors.

The fund delivered robust returns over the year. The position in internet company Tencent Holdings supported performance. It delivered robust quarterly earnings, its stock split was well received and the launch of a new advertising product improved its prospects. Moreover, the company's flexible strategy to expand into different segments on its own or through partnerships positioned it well for long-term growth. Meanwhile, improving order visibility in the technologically superior semiconductor chip category supported the position in Taiwan Semiconductor Manufacturing. The company's strong technology and cost leadership enables it to enjoy strong profitability and returns despite operating in a capital and research and development intensive industry. Meanwhile, the position in AlA Group and new holding in China Pacific Insurance Group (H) enhanced gains. These insurers delivered strong earnings, aided by improvements in the value of new business and remained well placed to grow their premiums. Conversely, the allocation to Hyundai Motor partly offset gains as its $10 billion investment in a land auction disappointed investors.

In the consumer staples sector, the allocation to China Mengniu Dairy was increased. Its tie up with Danone is helping it to focus on improving efficiencies. The position in HK Trust and HKT was also raised. The leading Hong Kong-based telecommunication services provider is expected to grow at a healthy pace as operators implement rational price increases.

FAWF Diversified Stock Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 117 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and expectations of an increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the period. The position in Apple contributed to returns as the company benefited from the successful launch of new products. The holding in Cisco Systems advanced on the back of stabilising earnings. The manager's positive view on the stock is based on its strong leadership in enterprise networking and telecommunications infrastructure. The holding in Microsoft also added value as the company posted sales and profits that beat expectations. Conversely, the allocation to energy companies Suncor Energy and Peabody Energy detracted from performance.

The fund is a broadly diversified large-cap core equity fund. The fund's investment process is based on the belief that stock prices are driven by changes in earnings expectations and that the accuracy of earnings estimates deteriorate as time horizons extend. Key holdings in the fund include Google (C), Apple, Johnson & Johnson and JPMorgan Chase & Co.

FAWF Emerging Markets Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 4 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose during the period. Optimism around Chinese monetary stimulus measures and the US Federal Reserve's decision to maintain lower interest rates boosted investor appetite for riskier assets. European Central Bank's new quantitative easing plan also lifted sentiment. Low interest rates in the developed world made emerging markets more attractive given their higher yields, which led to increased demand for these assets. However, geopolitical tensions in Russia led to some volatility. Latin American equities fell on concerns over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and a decline in oil and other commodity prices.

The fund performance was subdued over the period. The contribution from certain Brazilian companies such as brewer AmBev and bank Itau Unibanco Holding detracted from performance. This was because of the weak macroeconomic environment as reflected in the country's high unemployment and inflation. On a positive note, the position in media company Naspers enhanced gains on the back of strong performance of its ecommerce and internet businesses.

The fund holds key positions in China and South Africa. While the former is home to a large population with rising incomes, the latter offers high corporate governance standards. In both countries, the fund manager prefers a bottom-up stock picking approach based on fundamental drivers such as a company's market position, pricing power and the stock's valuation.

FAWF Equity Growth Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 37 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and expectations of an increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the period, driven by stock selection in the financials and information technology sectors. The position in Facebook (A) enhanced gains as its shares rose on the back of its rapidly expanding user base. However, energy holdings detracted from performance. Shares in oil-services firm Halliburton fell due to the downturn in the energy sector and its move to buy rival Baker Hughes.

The US economy is moving in the right direction, particularly with regards to the housing market, where data appears to be positive. However, the manager continues to monitor macroeconomic conditions while staying true to his investment process — bottom-up stock selection in companies with above-average earnings growth and attractive valuations. The fund has large positions in information technology stocks, including holdings in Facebook (A), Apple and Google (A). The fund also holds healthcare companies such as Gilead Sciences.

FAWF Equity Income Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 3 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply in order to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, geopolitical tensions in Russia and the Middle East, as well as prodemocracy protests in Hong Kong hurt investor sentiment. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 on weak global demand and rising production from the US.

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the period, driven by stock picking in the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors. The position in retailer Target enhanced gains on the back of its continuing turnaround efforts. The retailer implemented strategies to increase store traffic following a wide-scale consumer data breach in late 2013 that dented the company's image. However, healthcare holdings detracted from performance.

The fund's investment process is based on the belief that stock prices are driven by changes in earnings expectations and that the accuracy of earnings estimates deteriorate as time horizons extend. The manager focuses on businesses with sustainable, long-term competitive advantages, and those that generate high returns on equity or invested capital. Meanwhile, she looks to avoid expensively priced aggressive-growth companies with weaker business characteristics. Her approach tends to be more value-oriented than growth-oriented. The manager remains diligent about looking for ways to provide downside protection.

FAWF Europe Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 27 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period in euro terms, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. However, as a result of a falling euro, markets retreated in US dollar terms. Nevertheless, a weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund generated positive returns over the period, with strong contribution from the healthcare, financials and consumer discretionary sectors. In a low income environment, investors rewarded free cash flow-generative stocks such as publisher and information provider Reed Elsevier and insurer Prudential. Healthcare stocks, including Novartis and Roche Holding, also advanced over the period. The sector is attractive as patent cliffs are coming to an end and drug pipelines have dramatically improved. Conversely, energy holdings, including Total, Amec Foster Wheeler and Royal Dutch Shell (A) tracked oil prices lower. This was offset by positions in beneficiaries of lower oil prices, such as consumer discretionary stocks.

The manager reduced the exposure to positions that had re-rated. For example, he sold holdings in Renault and Continental. The manager also moved funds from Allianz into AXA as the latter was trading at better valuations. He also purchased shares in some cyclical companies with significant re-rating potential such as staffing company Randstad. Elsewhere, exposure to some stocks that may benefit from a recovery in oil prices was increased as the manager believes oil prices will rebound over the medium term. He enhanced holdings in energy firm Statoil and DNB ASA in financials. The latter was available at an attractive valuation as it was sold off due to its perceived sensitivity to oil prices.

FAWF International Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 22 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the period, supported by central banks in Europe, Japan and China, which continued to increase money supply in order to boost growth. The US Federal Reserve ended its bond buying programme, but said that it would wait for economic data to strengthen further before raising interest rates. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East, fears over the turmoil in Greece and, towards the end of the period, concerns about slowing growth momentum in the US and China, led to periods of volatility. Japan and the US outperformed, while the UK lagged other regions.

The fund generated robust positive returns over the year. In the US segment, the largest portion of the portfolio, underlying positions in selected financials and healthcare sectors stocks supported returns. Pharmacy benefit management company Express Scripts Holding stands to benefit from healthcare reforms in the US as well as from an ageing population, while CVS Health is well-positioned to benefit from the robust generic drug pipeline. The exposure to both the stocks was reduced to lock-in profits. Instead, a new position was purchased in pharmaceutical company Eli Lilly & Co in view of its underappreciated pipeline. At the overall fund level, positions in other regions including Japan, Pacific ex Japan and emerging markets contributed to performance. However, this was partly offset by the negative performance of the European segment.

The manager increased the allocation to Europe, which continues to benefit from the European Central Bank's stimulus measures and ongoing currency weakness. The exposure to Japan was also increased, where the weaker Japanese yen, lower oil prices and stimulus measures from the Bank of Japan support the outlook for equities. Elsewhere, the exposure to Asia Pacific ex Japan was reduced, as the strong US dollar, slowdown in China and weak commodity prices remain challenges.

FAWF Mega Cap Stock Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 2 MILLION

Manager's Overview

US equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by an improving macroeconomic backdrop and robust corporate balance sheets. Markets received a further boost from merger activity and resilient earnings announcements. However, geopolitical tensions, falling oil prices and expectations of an increase in interest rates led to periods of volatility. The Federal Reserve remained in focus as it continued to taper its monthly bond buying programme, finally ending it in October 2014

The fund generated positive absolute returns over the period, driven by stock picking in the information technology and consumer discretionary sectors. The position in retailer Target enhanced gains on the back of its continuing turnaround efforts. The retailer implemented strategies to increase store traffic following a wide-scale consumer data breach in late 2013 that dented the company's image. The holding in Microsoft also added value as the company posted sales and profits that beat expectations. Conversely, the allocation to energy companies Suncor Energy and BG Group detracted from performance.

The US economy is moving in the right direction, particularly with regards to the labour and housing markets, where data appears to be positive. Meanwhile, the manager continues to find interesting opportunities across sectors. The largest exposure in the fund is in the information technology and financials sectors. Within information technology, key holdings include Apple and Microsoft. Within financials, JPMorgan Chase & Co, Bank of America and Citigroup are among the key positions in the portfolio.

FAWF Pacific Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 35 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Equities in the Pacific region advanced strongly over the year. China and Hong Kong equities surged, largely driven by accommodative monetary policies and the introduction of the Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect programme. From a sector perspective, healthcare, financials and information technology (IT) stocks led gains on the back of healthy earnings growth and outlook. The energy and materials sectors lagged due to a decline in international commodity prices.

The fund's performance was driven by holdings in the financials, IT and industrials sectors. The position in online automobile classifieds and marketing services provider Bitauto Holdings surged on the back of strong earnings growth. Within financials, China-based insurance provider Ping An Insurance Group (China) (H) and brokerage firm CITIC Securities rallied on the back of financial sector reforms. The position in Tencent Holdings enhanced gains in light of continued monetisation of its services and a clear expansion strategy through diversified service offerings. In contrast, the allocation to HC International weighed on returns as its earnings disappointed due to its efforts to change its business model. The position was sold.

The fund has a strong bias towards the consumer discretionary sector, with a preference for companies run by high-quality management teams and the potential to deliver attractive returns. These include automobile component manufacturer Nippon Seiki and legal services provider Slater & Gordon. Meanwhile, China-based internet companies continue to offer strong growth potential given the rising internet usage in the country and their efforts to monetise these opportunities. The largest underweight remains in financials as the manager avoids Australian banks due to their unattractive valuations. Instead, the manager has high-conviction positions in selected China-based insurance providers and Japan-based leasing and consumer finance companies.

FAWF Limited Term Bond Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 20 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global government bond markets performed strongly over the review period and outperformed both investment grade and high yield corporate bonds. Both the Bank of Japan (BoJ) and European Central Bank (ECB) embarked on quantitative easing programmes, which continued to provide ample liquidity to markets. The significant fall in oil prices led to a large decrease in headline inflation rates. This, combined with concerns over the pace of global growth, proved supportive for high quality sovereign and corporate bonds. High yield corporate bonds also posted positive returns, but underperformed investment grade corporate bonds as a rise in volatility, particularly in the second half of 2014, resulted in widening credit spreads.

The portfolio advanced over the period as income was the primary driver of returns. In particular, high yielding bonds issued by companies with defensive business profiles such as Vantage Oncology and Marfrig contributed strongly to performance. The moderate, but well diversified, exposure to Russian companies also supported returns. Holdings in Russian banks, including VTB and Russian Agricultural Bank, boosted performance as the government made it clear that quasi-sovereign banks remain fully supported through new state capital, forbearance on regulatory accounting rules and continued provision of rouble and US dollar funding.

The portfolio aims to deliver an attractive yield relative to that of quality global government bonds by investing primarily in corporate debt securities issued globally. It invests primarily in investment grade and high yield corporate bonds with maturity date close to 31 December 2018. High yield corporate bonds constitute 45% of the portfolio's total assets, while investment grade credit accounts for the rest. Emerging market issuers continue to constitute around 35% of the portfolio. At a sector level, the biggest exposure is to banks and brokers (at 22%), with a new position purchased in Morgan Stanley. The allocation to the consumer sector was increased by purchasing holdings in online retailer Alibaba and automaker Aston Martin.

FAWF US Dollar Bond Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 7 MILLION

Manager's Overview

In the US, investment grade corporate bonds outperformed both government bonds and high yield corporate bonds over the review period. Economic growth accelerated in 2014, hitting a high of 5% in the third quarter of 2014. This, along with a steady fall in unemployment, led the US Federal Reserve (Fed) to end its quantitative easing programme in October. More recent data, however, indicates a slowdown in the pace of growth. For instance, GDP growth in the first quarter of 2015 slowed down to 0.2% annualised, trailing market expectations and coming in significantly below the corresponding figure for the previous quarters. This, coupled with a fall in inflation due to oil price volatility, pushed yields on US Treasuries lower.

The fund posted positive returns over the review period, primarily due to favourable security selection in the corporate bond portfolio. In particular, favourable selection in the energy sector added value. The sell-off caused by the oil price volatility, especially over the second half of 2014, provided attractive buying opportunities. For instance, the manager bought holdings in Continental Resources and Apache, which supported returns as oil prices subsequently recovered. Both positions were sold to take profits. Security selection in the consumer non-cyclical sector, such as positions in Heinz and Salix Pharmaceuticals, boosted performance. Elsewhere, the fund's interest rate strategy, through favourable positioning in US Treasuries, also added some value.

Over the review period, the manager increased the exposure to US dollar duration. He believes that markets are overly optimistic about US GDP growth, which has the potential to disappoint over the short term. In such a scenario, demand for safe-haven government debt would increase. Elsewhere, the fund retained a significant exposure to corporate bonds. At the sector level, the allocation to the technology sector was increased through a new holding in Oracle. Conversely, the exposure to financials was lowered by selling positions in Bank of America and Intesa Sanpaolo in the banking sector.

FAWF US High Income Fund 1,4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 96 MILLION

Manager's Overview

In the US, high yield corporate bonds lagged the rest of the bond market over the period, following a strong multi-year run. High yield investments, which offer potentially higher returns — as well as higher risk — than most bonds, began losing momentum in July 2014. Investors fled the asset class at a record pace amid a slowdown in global growth. Comments by US Federal Reserve Chair Janet Yellen about potentially stretched valuations and plunging oil prices due to weak demand and a surge in US production also weighed on the asset class. However, high yield markets rebounded in early 2015, as oil prices stabilised and investors' risk appetite increased.

The fund generated positive returns over the period. Security selection in utilities was the key contributor to returns. Within the utility sector, TXU Energy added notable value; this holding was raised during the period. Elsewhere, the exposure to International Lease Finance in the diversified financials sector supported returns. Conversely, the allocation to Cumulus Media in the broadcasting sector detracted significantly from performance. Security selection in the containers and services industries also weighed on returns.

High yield corporate bonds are likely to see continued strong demand as investors continue to search for yields. Over the year, the manager reduced the position in the telecommunications sector. For instance, holdings in Clear Channel and Wide Open West were sold and the exposure to Intelsat and Dish DBS was reduced. Conversely, the allocation to the utility sector was increased by purchasing a new holding in Dynegy. Elsewhere, the exposure to financials was increased by raising the position in Royal Bank of Scotland in the banking sector.

Institutional Asia Pacific (ex-Japan) Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 4 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Asia Pacific ex Japan equities gained over the period. In particular, Chinese and Hong Kong equities surged, driven by accommodative monetary policies and the introduction of the Shanghai Hong Kong Stock Connect. Meanwhile, Australian equities lagged as the materials and energy sectors weakened amid easing demand and as the Australian dollar fell against the US dollar. From a sector perspective, healthcare and telecommunication services providers advanced sharply given relatively defensive earnings and attractive yields. Financials benefited from the announcement of reform measures in China.

The fund strongly outperformed the comparative index due to robust stock selection and favourable positioning. In the information technology (IT) sector, the position in Tencent Holdings proved highly rewarding on the back of strong profits. The prospect of greater monetisation of services and diversification of its business further supported the stock. In the consumer staples sector, South Korea-based cosmetics producers LG Household & Healthcare and AmorePacific benefited mainly from rising demand in China. Consumer discretionary companies such as Hana Tour contributed strongly to returns. However, this was partially offset by a decline in share prices of SM Entertainment and Ainsworth Game Technology. The overweight stance in specialty machine producer Sarine Technologies was the single largest detractor from returns.

The portfolio reflects the manager's bias towards companies with market leadership positions, ability to expand market share and solid balance sheets. The fund has a strong overweight position in the consumer discretionary sector. The manager prefers companies with strong brands and premium products, which benefit from changing consumer preferences. The bias towards the industrials sector is mainly driven by companies with sustainable competitive advantages and high barriers to entry. In the IT sector, the fund holds market leaders with strong fundamentals. Elsewhere, the manager continues to avoid Australian banks given their unattractive valuations

Institutional Emerging Markets Equity Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: USD 193 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Emerging market equities rose during the period. Optimism around Chinese monetary stimulus measures and the US Federal Reserve's decision to maintain lower interest rates boosted investor appetite for riskier assets. Low interest rates in the developed world made emerging markets more attractive given their higher yields, which led to increased demand for these assets. However, fears of a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and the decline in commodity prices unnerved investors. Gains were also held back by escalating geopolitical tensions related to Russia's annexation of Crimea. Latin American equities fell on concerns over a slowdown in the Chinese manufacturing sector and a decline in oil and other commodity prices.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, largely due to stock selection in the consumer discretionary sector. The underweight positions in energy and materials also supported relative performance. At a country level, selected holdings in South Africa aided returns. In consumer discretionary, media company Naspers enhanced gains on the strong performance of its e-commerce and internet businesses. In the consumer staples sector, South Korean cosmetics company Amorepacific added value given the rising popularity of its products among Chinese customers. Internet technology company NetEase advanced on the back of its gaming and advertising businesses. Within financials, shares in China-based brokerage firm CITIC Securities rose on hopes that policymakers' plans to reform capital markets and improve liquidity will boost earnings of large brokerages.

Emerging market consumers spend a large proportion of their income on food and other basic goods. Consequently, the fund has significant exposure to consumer sectors. Within consumer discretionary, shares in SAIC Motor were purchased given its robust product portfolio. The fund has limited exposure to the materials sector, as oversupply of commodities is putting downward pressure on these shares.

Institutional Euro Blue Chip Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 109 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's announcement of a stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited gains.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the year as both stock selection and sector positioning boosted returns. The exposure to the financials, healthcare and telecommunications sectors enhanced returns, while the positioning in consumer staples and materials hurt performance. In financials, an underweight stance in some risky peripheral banks added relative value. The position in German residential property group GAGFAH gained following a takeover offer. Conversely, energy holding Royal Dutch Shell and stocks with oil exposure, such as Siemens, fell amid a decline in oil prices.

The manager continues to focus on stocks that have the ability to expand relatively independently from the macroeconomic environment. As a result, healthcare is a key overweight as the predictability of sales for new product launches is high. The exposure to the sector was increased by purchasing shares in Roche Holding, which has a strong pipeline of new treatments over the longer term. The overweight stance in industrials was also raised. A new opportunity was found in global energy management company Schneider Electric, which became more attractive on price weakness. Conversely, he moved to an underweight stance in the consumer discretionary sector. Profits were taken in Volkswagen AG Perpetual (Pref'd) and Autogrill as these stocks appeared expensive after a strong rally. The fund is underweight in financials as the sector is largely driven by external events rather than company-specific factors. Nevertheless, the manager bought some attractively valued stocks with growing dividends and strong balance sheets such as ING Groep.

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 48 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. The economic recovery also broadened out across countries and sectors. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period, driven largely by strong stock selection. This is the aim of the manager's portfolio construction process as he tries to ensure that macroeconomic/factor/sector risks are minimised and stock selection drives performance. Cash-generative defensive businesses such as publisher and information provider $\mathsf{Reed}^{\bar{}}$ Elsevier and insurance stock Legal & General Group were notable contributors to returns. Investors also rewarded London Stock Exchange Group for its well-planned accretive deal to acquire Russell. As a result, the exposure to the financials sector boosted performance. Conversely, energy holdings and companies with oil & gas exposure, such as Siemens, detracted from returns. This was offset by an overweight stance in beneficiaries of lower oil prices, such as consumer discretionary stocks, and avoiding utilities and other companies that own oil assets.

The manager reduced the exposure to positions that had re-rated. For example, he sold holdings in Renault and Continental. The manager also moved funds from Allianz into AXA as the latter was trading at better valuations. He also purchased shares in some cyclical companies with significant re-rating potential such as staffing company Randstad. Elsewhere, exposure to some stocks that may benefit from a recovery in oil prices was increased as the manager believes oil prices will rebound over the medium term. He enhanced holdings in energy firm Statoil and DNB ASA in financials. The latter was available at attractive valuation as it was sold off due to its perceived sensitivity to oil prices.

Institutional European Smaller Companies Fund 4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 80 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European equities advanced over the period, primarily driven by the European Central Bank's (ECB) announcement of a bond buying stimulus programme in the first quarter of 2015, which exceeded market expectations. A weaker euro brightened corporate earnings prospects, boosting investor sentiment. However, the long-term issues of stability in the eurozone and ongoing tensions in the Middle East limited market gains. Overall, smaller companies slightly underperformed their larger counterparts.

The fund outperformed the comparative index over the period since its launch in July 2014. Strong security selection in the information technology (IT), healthcare and financials sectors supported returns. For instance, shares in healthcare company Sartorius Stedim Biotech (H), specialty real estate manager Grand City Properties and online takeaway food delivery service Just Eat rose on the back of strong results. The position in Italian asset manager Anima Holding also gained due to strong inflows and prospects of a distribution deal with Poste Italiane. Conversely, videogame developer GameLoft was the top detractor from performance. Its shares retreated after its full-year sales forecast came in below expectations, primarily due to delayed game releases.

The manager focuses on companies that have a clear market leadership position, sustainable competitive advantage, profit growth driven by strong sales growth and an ability to generate cash. The portfolio has an overweight exposure to the IT and healthcare sectors. During the period, the manager increased the allocation to several quality growth companies. He bought new holdings in two asset managers – Anima Holding and Henderson Group – that have strong performance records, thereby increasing the fund's positioning in a structurally growing industry. A new position was also purchased in Sunrise Communications. The company is wellplaced in the mobile sector, driven by its superior spectrum position and recent investments to improve network quality.

Institutional Global Focus Fund 4

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : USD 97 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities delivered positive results over the period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 due to weak global demand and rising production from the US.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period. Security selection in financials stocks added value. In particular, expectations of premium growth and a strong outlook for its life insurance business lifted the holding in China Pacific Insurance Group (H). Holdings in the consumer staples sector, including CVS Health and Monster Beverage, advanced amid expectations that lower energy prices and the strengthening US economy would lead to increased consumer spending. The position in Monster Beverage was subsequently sold. Elsewhere, the manager also sold the holding in biotechnology stock Amgen, which had performed strongly following better-than-expected operational performance. Conversely, selected energy positions declined amid weakness in crude oil prices, which have been falling due to unfavourable demand-supply dynamics. As a result, shares in Weatherford International and Peabody Energy detracted from performance. The manager sold positions in Peabody Energy and Royal Dutch Shell due to uncertainty in crude oil prices.

Given the macroeconomic uncertainties, the manager continues to believe that stock-specific fundamentals will remain the key driver of returns. Consequently, he continues to focus on companies that demonstrate strong pricing power, are led by talented managements and are available at reasonable valuations. While there are no strong sector biases, he prefers stocks that provide growth at a reasonable price. Currently, the fund has an overweight stance in the health care, information technology and financials sectors.

Institutional Global Sector Fund 4,5

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 205 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Global equities rose over the review period. While the US Federal Reserve ended its quantitative easing programme in October, other central banks continued to increase money supply in order to support growth, which boosted equity markets. However, continuing geopolitical tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East and fears over the turmoil in Greece led to periods of volatility. Oil prices have remained under pressure since mid-2014 due to weak global demand and rising production from the US.

The fund outperformed the comparative index during the period. BioMarin Pharmaceutical was the top contributor to performance as it raised its full-year guidance and announced positive results from a drug trial. Avanir Pharmaceuticals added value as investors were positive about its robust product pipeline. Elsewhere, positions in Grand City Properties and GAGFAH, both of which have exposure to the buoyant German property sector, performed strongly. The new holding in Grand City Properties gained from a favourable business environment given the European Central Bank's quantitative easing measures. German housing firm GAGFAH advanced following an acquisition bid by Deutsche Annington Immobilien. The position was subsequently sold. Conversely, the overweight stance in MEG Energy and Weatherford International, which tracked crude oil prices lower, weighed on performance. These positions were sold due to uncertainty regarding crude oil prices. The allocation to TT Electronics held back returns after it said that its full-year earnings are expected to be at the low end of market forecasts.

The manager believes that earnings growth will be vital for a sustained uptrend in equities this year. Against this backdrop, a bottom-up stock selection approach becomes more meaningful. At an aggregate level, the portfolio is currently overweight in the consumer discretionary, information technology and healthcare

Institutional Hong Kong Opportunities Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: HKD 52 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Chinese and Hong Kong stocks rose sharply during the period, as policymakers and the government launched a series of stimulus measures to offset slowing economic growth. The People's Bank of China reduced benchmark interest rates to promote economic activity and policymakers set the official "new normal" annual economic growth rate target at 7% compared to the previous target of 7.5%. The Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect got underway, further opening up the Chinese A-share markets to foreign investors.

The fund underperformed the comparative index during the year. Security selection in the information technology sector hurt returns. Internet related holdings in $\ensuremath{\mathsf{HC}}$ International, Soufun Holdings and Jumei International Holdings were key detractors from performance. Premium sector valuations prompted a broad-based sell-off as investors took profits to participate in Alibaba's initial public offering. Business-tobusiness e-commerce firm HC International was also negatively impacted by worries about slower revenue growth. These positions were sold. An underweight stance in China Mobile weighed on relative returns as its efforts to control capital expenditure were well received. The position was increased during the year. Encouragingly, a new holding in China Railway Construction (H) supported returns amid a focus on railway reforms and merger and acquisition activity in the sector. The allocation to brokerage firm CITIC Securities supported returns. The surge in trading volumes following the Shanghai-Hong Kong Stock Connect boosted its revenues.

Oscar Leung took over as the portfolio manager in March 2015. He prefers businesses with relatively low risk, but with strong medium-term prospects that are yet to be recognised by the market. He has conviction holdings in selected internet stocks such as Tencent Holdings and Baidu. The fund is also overweight in selected financials such as China Construction Bank (H), Bank of China (H), Industrial & Commercial Bank of China (H) and Hong Kong Exchange & Clearing.

Institutional Japan Fund

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015: JPY 21,743 MILLION

Manager's Overview

Japanese stocks advanced over the review period. While markets experienced periods of volatility due to external risk factors, Japanese firms made solid progress in terms of raising both profits and shareholder returns. The domestic economy gradually overcame the effects of the April 2014 sales tax hike, and both monetary and fiscal policy initiatives supported equities. Increased flows from domestic investors, notably public pensions and corporates, were the key drivers of the market rally.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the year, largely due to stock selection in the information technology (IT) and industrials sectors. Shares in Hitachi retreated amid doubts about its longer-term growth story. However, the industrial electronics company remains committed to its operational reforms and its valuations are attractive. Power tool maker Makita's earnings decelerated due to economic headwinds in Europe and negative currency factors. Among financials, mega bank Sumitomo Mitsui Financial Group underperformed as it made limited progress in redistributing capital to shareholders. On a positive note, healthcare stocks were among the key contributors to returns. Strong demand for Sysmex's haematology testing equipment overseas coupled with a weaker yen bolstered its earnings. Shares in Shionogi surged on strong sales of key treatments and Nippon Shinyaku reported successful trial results for a new drug.

The fund is overweight in the IT, materials and consumer discretionary sectors. Holdings in Fujitsu and Hitachi were increased, and new positions were purchased in Denso and Canon. The exposure to financials was bolstered by the addition of mega bank Mitsubishi UFJ Financial Group, which stands out for its efforts to improve shareholder returns. Conversely, the manager took some profits in strong performing healthcare stocks, including Nippon Shinyaku, and sold Daiichi Sankyo due to the limited approval of a new treatment. Holdings in Mitsubishi Electric and Sumitomo Heavy Industries were sold, extending the underweight position in the industrials sector

Institutional European High Yield Fund ⁴

FUND SIZE AS AT 30.04.2015 : EUR 46 MILLION

Manager's Overview

European high yield bonds generated positive returns but underperformed both German bunds and investment grade corporate bonds over the period. Credit spreads widened in the second half of 2014 as increasing concerns about slowing growth and fears of a deflation in the eurozone weighed on sentiment. This was further compounded by the withdrawal of liquidity in the US, rising individual credit risk events and tensions in Ukraine and the Middle East. Markets also witnessed elevated volatility in 2015 as Greece and Russia continued to dominate headlines. Nevertheless, the asset class partially recovered after the European Central Bank (ECB) announced quantitative easing measures in January, which exceeded market expectations.

The fund underperformed the comparative index over the review period as security selection hurt returns. Specifically, holdings in Phones 4U was a key detractor from performance as it went into administration after Vodafone Group and EE, another significant client, did not renew their contracts with the company. Conversely, selective exposure to banks, particularly contingent convertible bonds of Credit Suisse Group enhanced gains. As a result, the manager booked partial profits in these bonds. Within the telecommunications sector, the overweight stance in Play Finance and Wind Acquisition Finance were key contributors to performance.

The fund's positioning remains balanced, with credit beta (sensitivity to credit spreads) close to the neutral position. At the ratings level, the fund remains underweight in BB rated bonds, although the manager has added some positions in this space. He believes that high-grade investors will buy into lower-rated bonds in search for yield. The fund is also overweight in lower-rated bonds where the manager has strong conviction. At the sector level, the fund continues to prefer more defensive bonds in the communications sector; new positions were purchased in Altice and OTE. The fund is underweight in cyclical corporates such as metals/mining, chemicals, retail and automobiles.
